From the Editor's Desk . . .

TO THOSE OF YOU who couldn't be here for the 1950 Homecoming, we would like to present the following message which was read over the public address system at Ohio Stadium as a part of the halftime ceremonies of the Homecoming game:

"Dear Friends of Ohio University:

I am an alumnus returning, as many of you today, for Homecoming. With each visit to O. U. for an occasion such as this, I enjoy seeing my friends again and sharing with them experiences old and new. At the same time, I miss those who failed to return, and I mourn the loss of those who will never be with us again.

"At the game, I cheer our Bobcats in victory, and yes, I cheer them in defeat, because I know that regardless of the odds or the outcome, they have given their best. Only recently I met our varsity team in my home town, and I pointed to them with pride because they are gentlemen and because they have this tradition.

"When I return to the campus, I am delighted when one of my professors recognizes me, and I soon recall the important part he has played in my life, by his advice to 'do a job well' and his challenge to 'do a little more than I am asked to do.'

"But to me this Homecoming has special significance, because today through our Alumni Association and through my alumni club in my community, I see more clearly the high ideals and traditions of my Ohio University. I see the seriousness of our students in regard to their purpose at O. U.; I see the importance of the close relationship they enjoy with our faculty. I have seen the new buildings and I now follow the achievements of our students and faculty in our alumni publications. I met our President when he spoke to our alumni club, and I now share his friendliness and enthusiasm.

"Yes, this Homecoming is significant to me, and I believe it will continue to be significant to all of us as we in our alumni groups grow each day in our praise of Alma Mater, Ohio."

MANY READERS are acquainted with Tad and Sylvia Danielewski, students from Poland who were graduated in June and were married in Hollywood later in the summer. They now hold fellowships at the University of Iowa where they are doing graduate work in dramatics. Tad and Sylvia, who are familiar with the horrors of war and witnessed the destruction of their native Warsaw, appeared as speakers and entertainers before a number of alumni groups.

Recently they wrote a letter to President Baker from which we quote the following excerpts:

"... Today... we can say that the charm of our Dear Old Alma Mater holds tight no matter how many New Yorks, Hollywoods, important and unimportant happenings may seem to cause a 'fading away' of the memory of it in our minds and hearts. The impress of Ohio University is very deep on us.

"The thing we want you to know is that in an amazingly short period of time we went through two processes at Ohio University. The first was the process of healing: we had been taken from the middle of the storm... and put into a fortress of wisdom, where so much help was given to our battered souls that we soon recovered, first our balance, then our strength and finally our hope. Our continued education and learning how to live the new way were the bountiful additions to the treasure that we have assembled at Ohio University. We have learned, not by an accident, but by a conscious effort of good and wise people how to love this great country and this nation, and have decided to serve it the best we can, for this way we shall be working for the progress of Humanity and the better world of tomorrow.

"We know that this is the feeling that all students leaving your school have, though their backgrounds are different than ours. Thanks to Our School we are equipped with the real goods, which we shall try not to squander..."

Alumni Conference Held On Campus

Ohio University alumni leaders from all sections of Ohio and neighboring West Virginia met on the campus, Saturday, October 14, for an Alumni Conference which, in an expanded form, is expected to become an annual event hereafter.

The conference had as one of its principal purposes the re-acquainting of a rather sizeable number of alumni with their university—bringing them up to date not only on the physical growth that has taken place during their years of absence from the campus, but also a discussion with them of university policies, aims, and needs, as well as some of the proposals for "a stronger and more dynamic Ohio University Alumni Association."

Somewhat experimental in nature, the first conference was so successful from the viewpoints of all concerned—its planners, university authorities, and alumni participants—that instead of only one such conference being held each year, affairs of a similar nature may be scheduled twice or even three times a year.

Judge Lewis H. Miller, '13, Ripley, W. Va., national alumni president, presided over the Saturday morning program which was held in the auditorium of the new Student Health Center. The time allotted for the program proved to be much too short, however, for adequate coverage of the subjects proposed for discussion. In the future one and a half or two full days will be given over to the conference program and entertainment.

President Miller presented University President John C. Baker, who, following a greeting of the guests, discussed university affairs in much the same frank way that he would bring them to the attention of the board of trustees or the administrative council. Knowing that "insights" into the university's affairs would be appreciated by those present and would be helpful to them in describing and interpreting the university to others, the president gave an account of his stewardship since coming to Ohio University, told of his hopes and plans for the future, and emphasized his desire and need for alumni support in achieving the aims and purposes outlined.

In the absence of Chairman Carr Liggett, '16, of the Alumni Survey Committee, Prof. C. N. Mackinnon, a member of the committee, gave a background statement relative to the committee's appointment and briefly indicated some of the recommendations in a report that will be the basis of efforts to make the Ohio University Alumni Association a "stronger and more dynamic" organization.

Dr. George W. Starcher, '26, dean of University College and chairman of the University Scholarship Committee, described to the alumni visitors the scholarships that are now available to students and pointed out the need for additional funds for scholarship purposes. Several of the organized alumni groups, it was pointed out, award annual scholarships to students from their own territories and others are planning to establish such awards.

In the few minutes remaining in the session, Martin L. Hecht, '46, assistant alumni secretary, outlined and illustrated by means of a diagram, a proposed structural organization for the Alumni Association which would enable it more effectively to carry on its present work and make possible an early expansion in the scope of its activities. His report and the diagram used for illustrative purposes will appear in the December Alumnus.

Time did not permit of a description of Alumni Office activities and procedures by Alumni Secretary Clark Williams, '21, or a report on the Ohio University Fund by Brandon T. Grover, '19, assistant to President Baker and acting associate Fund director.

In the planning of future conferences time will be allowed for a longer "re-orientation" period, for more reports, and for a visitation of university buildings and classrooms. It is likely, too, that there will be panel discussions in which visiting alumni will participate.

The meeting at the Health Center adjourned at twelve o'clock, after which the conference attendants, with wives and husbands, were guests of President and Mrs. Baker at luncheon in the unique lounge-dining room at Ohio Stadium. The luncheon was followed by the Ohio-Western Reserve football game, with the guests occupying sideline boxes.

Among the presidents of organized alumni groups and other "key" alumni who attended the conference were:

Bruce R. Blake and Mrs. Wendell N. Brewer (Mary Propp), and David W. Hardman, Akron; Clifford L. Hughes,

William H. Beckwith, Parkersburg, W. Va., H. W. McKelvey, Portsmouth; Sheldon Rowland, Sandusky; J. I. Merrill and Dr. William K. Lehmann, Springfield; Frank A. Cunningham, Steubenville; J. W. LaFrance, Toledo; Edwin B. Evans, Wooster; Sue Molner, Youngstown; and Edwin L. Merry, Zanesville.

Representatives from Bellefontaine, Canton, Charleston, W. Va., Coshocton, East Liverpool, Findlay, Gallipolis, Indianapolis, Ind., Jackson, Logan, Lima, Marion, Piqua, and Painesville were, for various reasons, unable to be present.

Not all of the activity in alumni circles took place on the campus last month. For an account of other "doings," see below:

Cleveland

Several members of the Cleveland Bobcat Club, with their wives, traveled to Kent to witness the Ohio-Kent State football encounter on October 21. On their way home after the game they stopped at the Smorgasboard in Stow for dinner and an informal reunion.

On November 14, the Club will have as special guests and speakers at its meeting at the Cleveland Athletic Club, Duck Hi Lee (see article on page 14), a Korean student, and Ng Chiau Beng, a student from Singapore.

At a similar meeting last year the Clevelanders had as guests from the campus three other students from abroad—Sylvia Lakomska and Tad Danielewski (see page 2), from Poland, and Ivo Moravcik, from Czechoslovakia.

On December 21, the Bobcats will sponsor their annual Christmas Dance for alumni and undergraduates. The party will be held at the University Club, 3813 Euclid Avenue, from 10:00 P.M. to 2:00 A.M. Any alumnus or student, whether from the Cleveland area or not, is welcome to attend this popular event. Information concerning the orchestra and the price of tickets has not yet reached the Alumni Office.

Akron

Kent was a football mecca for another group of Bobcats—from Akron—on October 21. A party of twenty-five had lunch at the Robinhood Inn, in Kent, before joining the Ohio U. rooting section for a game that brought the Green and White an unexpected and disappointing upset.

With the Akronites at their luncheon were C. Don McVay, '15, former national president of the Ohio University Alumni Association and Mrs. McVay

In the picture in the upper right corner of the preceding page are to be seen Dean George W. Starcher, '26, and Mrs. Starcher (Margaret Shaver, '26) in conversation with C. Paul Stocker, '26, and Mrs. Stocker (Beth Kilpatrick, '28) of Lorain.

Pictured on this page: President Baker with J. William LaFrance, '35, president of the Toledo Alumni Chapter, and Mrs. LaFrance (Addie Butt, '34). With coat in hand, ready to go outside for the game is Frank A. Cunningham, '41, president of the Steubenville chapter.

Youngstown

On November 18, the Ohio University Women's Club of Youngstown will hold its second meeting of the year under the sponsorship of a committee headed by Mrs. Fred O'Dea (Ruth Lathouse, '23, 2-yr.). A Mr. Texter will be the speaker.

The Club's opening get-together of the year was a picnic, September 30, at Homestead Park. Marjorie Cook, '43, was chairman of the committee in charge.

Dayton

Members of the Dayton chapter have invited the parents of students from their area to join them in a meeting, November 24, at the Dayton Art Institute which will be addressed by President Baker of the University. Students, who will be home for the Thanksgiving vacation, are also welcome to attend the meeting. Mrs. Lee Eiler (Frieda Morel, '21, 2-yr.) is president of the Dayton organization.

Parkersburg, W. Va.

Ohio U. alumni in the Parkersburg area have scheduled a dinner meeting for December 13 at the Chancellor Hotel at which a local club organization will be effected. President Baker will be the speaker. The organization activity is headed by William S. Beckwith, '27.

Marion

Although not a chapter activity, the work of Mrs. Fred Artz (Gene Mattox, '21) in connection with a meeting for high school girls, sponsored jointly by the Marion chapter of the American Association of University Women and the Business and Professional Women's Club, should not go unrecognized.

For this affair, to which all girls of the city and county having an interest in going to college were invited, Mrs. Artz prepared an "Ohio University" exhibit which attracted much favorable attention. Pictures of campus scenes and buildings were mounted for Mrs. Artz by Lenore and Dale Hughes, two former Ohioans now in the photography business in Marion.

APPEALS JUDGE HAS MISHAP

Judge Roy Gillen, A.B. '15, B.S.Ed. '16, Wellston, a member of the fourth district Court of Appeals, suffered a broken leg October 14 when he fell down a flight of stairs. Physicians stated that he would be disabled for at least two months.

Totally blind since the age of 15, Judge Gillen has earned degrees from three universities (A.M., Ohio State; LL.B., Western Reserve) and was honored with membership in Phi Beta Kappa.

NOMINATIONS FOR 1950-1951

Robert G. Webber, '13, Mt. Sterling, chairman; Vincent J. Jukes, '30, Athens; and J. W. LaFrance, '35, Toledo.

The nominees for 1950-51 terms are: For president, Grosvenor S. McKee, '16, Meadville, Pa.; for vice president (men's division), Willis H. Edmund, '28, Akron; for vice president (women's division), Elizabeth J. Herbert, '22, Cleveland; for secretary, Clark E. Williams, '21, Athens; and for treasurer, William H. Fenzel, '18, Athens.

Mr. McKee is a director, vice president, and works manager of Talon, Inc., manufacturers of well-known slide fasteners. He is also a director and vice president of Perfection Patents, Inc., and of Lion Fastener, Inc., Rochester, N. Y., and a member of the board of the Hall Planetary Co., Philadelphia, the Robeson Cutlery Co., Perry, N. Y., and of the Lightning Fastener Co., Ltd., St. Catherine, Ontario, Canada.

Immediately following graduation from Ohio University, he served one year as an engineer with the American Gas and Electric Co. in Wheeling, W. Va. The next two years were spent with the Army Engineer Corps in this country and abroad. He held the rank of captain at the time of leaving service.

There followed an association of 11 years with the Timken Roller Bearing Co. in Canton and one year with the Grigsby-Grunow Co. in Chicago. From 1933 to 1936 he was in the production engineering department of the Baldwin-Southwark Corp., a subsidiary of the Baldwin Locomotive Works in Philadelphia.

During the next two years, Mr. McKee was general superintendent of the Globe-Wernicke Co. in Cincinnati. His association with Talon, Inc., began in 1938.

While in Canton, he organized and became the first president of the Ohio University alumni chapter. Active in civic affairs, he was vice president of the Canton City Council for several years. He was national president of the Ohio University Alumni Association in 1940-1941.

Mr. McKee's father, the late W. H. McKee, was for many years a member of Ohio University's Board of Trustees. His mother, now 84 years of age, still lives in the McKee family home immediately south of the Agriculture and Household Arts Building. His grandfather was General Charles H. Grosvenor, a Civil War general, and a distinguished congressman from the local district. Mr. McKee is a brother of Mrs. G. H. Evans (Grace McKee, '19), Belmont, Mass., and has numerous other relatives on his alma mater's alumni roll. He is married and has three children and three grandchildren.

Mr. Edmund has been director of recreation for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., Akron, since 1944.

Born in Thornville, he received a Bachelor of Science degree from Ohio University in 1928 and a Master of Arts degree from New York University in

ALTHOUGH THE hope was expressed last year that never again would it be necessary to conduct an election of Alumni Association officers by mail, the situation that necessitated the procedure in the past still exists and the practice is to be repeated this year.

The explanation is the same as a year ago: "The streamlined commencement programs of recent years have left no spot for a general meeting of alumni at which an election of officers could be held."

For yet another year, therefore, members of the Ohio University Alumni Association are asked to support the slate of nominees appearing below, or to write in their own choices, by means of the accompanying ballot which should be clipped and mailed to the Alumni Office before December 1.

As in the past, a single slate has been submitted by the nominating committee, with attention called to the fact that members have the privilege of writing in the names of others whom they may prefer to those proposed.

It will be noted that two vice presidents have been nominated this year and that there are no names proposed for an executive committee. This is true because under a new constitution now in process of development there will be a vice president with primary responsibility for work with men's groups and another for work with women's groups. Advisory councils to be appointed by the officers will take over the duties and functions of the executive committee.

Failure of members to exercise their right of franchise will be taken as an indication of satisfaction with the slate recommended by the nominating committee. Members of the committee are

On and About the Green . . .

THE FIRST JOB OF the college student in this "turbulent . . . mid-century" is to achieve true scholarship, President Baker declared in the first University convocation of the 1950-51 year.

A tribute to the president and his message and significant of the times was the fact that Alumni Memorial Auditorium was filled for the address.

President Baker told the students that the brightest spot in their picture is the fact that "you find yourselves in a university in 1950." He said that while the country's immediate need is to prepare for the eventuality of war, its long-range needs require study and thought which will build a lasting peace.

"Our problem is not simply settling the Russian affair," said the president. He outlined the underlying and immediate causes that historically have brought on wars and stressed the need for more "thinking people."

He said that we must think independently, even though some persons are ready "to call difference 'subversive' . . . to confuse status quo with democracy and change with communism . . . and to accept name-calling as proof of guilt."

In reference to students and the draft, the president reminded the students that the induction of any of them can be postponed until the end of the school year for which they are enrolled. He emphasized the armed forces' need of technically and professionally trained persons and pointed out that postponement of induction until their training is completed is possible for students whose superior ability is shown.

"The changing nature of science and the effects of it make 'essential' difficult to define," said Dr. Baker. But he listed as "specific needs" of students training in: (1) ROTC, (2) engineering, (3) science, (4) foreign languages, and (5) a thorough knowledge of our form of government.

L. R. BOULWARE, VICE PRESIDENT of General Electric, was an October visitor to the University. Sponsoring the well known executive's visit was the OU Engineers Club.

Mr. Boulware spoke at an open convocation in Ewing Auditorium, choosing for his subject the question "Who's Involved in Human Relations?" He answered it generally with an outline of the many groups, formal and informal, with which a corporation deals.

He pointed out two requirements necessary to the successful operation of "our free system": (1) People must have the facts of a situation, and (2) they must want to "do right when no one is looking."

Mr. Boulware said misunderstanding comes from bad facts and from not enough facts. He declared that our economic system needs a "warm interpretation," which will show it as an exciting, worth-fighting-for ideology.

The Engineers Club presented President Baker an honorary membership in the organization, Club President Don Russell, Newcomerstown, making the presentation.

THE OHIO SOCIETY of Professional Engineers, of which George W. Clark, associate professor of civil engineering, is president, recently passed a resolution urging the deferment of qualified engineering students.

The resolution, drawn up for presentation to the National Society of Professional Engineers, calls for the national group to "make all possible effort to have engineering included as a critical skill for the purpose of deferment of engineering students from the Armed Forces so they can complete their undergraduate or graduate work."

The resolution would defer "students of engineering who have satisfactorily passed beyond their second year of collegiate work and who are regularly enrolled in a college of engineering approved by the State of Ohio Board of Registration for Engineers and Surveyors." It further provides that such students be in the upper half of their class during the preceding year and that they remain in the upper half during succeeding semesters, terms, or quarters.

A THREE-DAY CONFERENCE on general semantics and human relations was held at the University late in October.

S. I. Hayakawa, widely-known lecturer and writer, was guest lecturer and discussion leader for the conference. The School of Dramatic Art and Speech and the English and Human Relations departments, in cooperation with the Southeastern Ohio Teachers Association, sponsored the conference.

Dr. Hayakawa presented two open lectures and discussions and met with specialized groups and classes several times. A recognized authority in the fields of general semantics and human relations, Dr. Hayakawa is currently editor of ETC, the journal of the International Society for General Semantics. He is author of a 1941 Book of the Month Club selection. Language in Action, and co-author with J. B. Pillard of its 1949 revision, Language in Thought and Action.

AMONG VISITORS OF renown to the campus this fall was Prof. Giorgio Abetti, of Florence, Italy. Professor Abetti, one of the world's leading astronomers, lectured on the personal papers of Galileo in an open meeting in Chemistry Auditorium.

Dr. Abetti was brought to the University by Dr. Victor Goedicke, associate professor of mathematics and astronomy. The two astronomers became friends following World War II when Dr. Goedicke, who was in the U. S. Army, was teaching at the University of Florence.

Recognized as a leading authority on the spectroscopy of the sun, Dr. Abetti has won many honors and has written several books. He has worked in the observatories of Berlin, Mt. Wilson, Heidelberg, Yerkes, Rome, and Florence.

Shown in the picture are Dr. Abetti (left), Dr. Goedicke, Dean E. J. Taylor, of the College of Applied Science, and the University's new $15,000 telescope atop the new Engineering Building. Mounted last summer, the telescope is in partial student use, with supplementary equipment yet to be installed.

PIANIST EUGENE JENNINGS was the artist in the first faculty recital of the 1950-51 season, and, to quote a critic, ". . . established himself . . . as an artist of unusual insight, technical command, and sincerity."

Mr. Jennings joined the music faculty this fall. Among his offerings in the Alumni Memorial Auditorium recital was "Epigrams," composed by Dr. Karl Ahrendt, new director of the School of Music.

UNIVERSITY THEATER opened its 1950-51 season with a highly successful and well done interpretation of "Life With Father," the record breaking Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse play.

The October production is to be followed by "Jason," December 6-9, and "The Heiress," March 7-10. University Theater is bringing to the campus, April 16, The Barter Theater of Virginia in Shakespeare's "The Comedy of Errors."

LUTHERAN STUDENTS at the University now have a full-time interne pastor. He is William F. Schmidt, Jr., of Waverly, Iowa, who was appointed by the Division of Student Service of the National Lutheran Council, made up of eight national Lutheran church groups.

Mr. Schmidt is a third-year seminarian at Capital University and a part-time graduate student at Ohio University.

FINAL STAGES of the remodeling of the photography plant are now being completed in the basement of the Fine Arts Bldg.

The new facilities include a new chemical mixing room, two new dark-rooms, and two new loading rooms. A few pieces of additional equipment, lockers and enlarged printing facilities are also included.

From the President's Office

COMMITTEE ON DEFERMENT

Once more the armed services are beckoning to the young men of the University, both undergraduates and staff members. It is not our policy to attempt to withhold any one who is eligible and is called. There are special cases, however, in which we feel justified in asking for a postponement. If the decision to request or not to request deferment is left to the individual deans and department heads, obviously there is bound to be lack of uniformity. Some administrators may prove to be more or less compliant than others. In order to avoid any suggestion of unfairness in this important matter a committee has been appointed to pass upon all requests for postponement and to act as a source of information for those who are called or who believe they may be called into service. Members of the committee are: Paul H. Black, Donald R. Clippinger, Robert E. Mahn, and C. N. Mackinnon, chairman.

Selective Service authorities realize that in World War II we made the mistake of emptying the colleges too thoroughly. It is unfortunate for society to check suddenly and almost completely the flow of men into advanced studies. Some effort was made during the last war to retain in the universities those students who were working in certain scientific fields, such as engineering, medicine, and dentistry. The belief now is that such restrictions were too limited. It is important to continue the output of educated men and women in all fields. Full-time students are not now being pulled from class-rooms in great numbers. As the Selective Service Act reads, any full-time student in good standing may expect to obtain postponement automatically until the end of the college year. It is necessary for our committee only to present to the draft board a certification that the student is taking a full course and is in good standing. The status of reservists is more uncertain, and there are somewhat different attitudes in different commands and in the various branches of the service. In general, though, we have been successful in obtaining postponements until at least the end of the semester.

What many national leaders urge and what may quite possibly be the established system presently is a screening of students now on college campuses and of the graduating classes of the high schools. Those scoring in the upper forty or fifty per cent in an ability test would be permitted to continue their education. Those in the lower percentage would be available for the services. It also has been proposed that any in the upper bracket who found it impossible for financial reasons to continue their education should be granted federal scholarships liberal enough to make the opportunity real. Out of the dangers of the present international situation may come the most truly democratic system for higher education the country has ever known.

Campus Clippings

December is nipping at November's heels like a saucy puppy. The McGuffey Elms have shed their leaves like a patchwork quilt over the campus, and the sky is taking on the sombre look of winter.

Cameras can be seen focused on the Health Center, the Library, Carnegie, or Lindley Hall — as elementary photography students check this lever and tug at that one in their first attempts at class photography.

Battle-scarred Alph Xi's and Pi Phi's are limping across campus—or just looking dazed—after their annual Powder Ball Game Sunday, October 22nd. The score was 31-0, in favor of the Pi Phi's. The proceeds, approximately $600, go to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund.

The stars over Athens, which look so beautiful on a clear night, will soon be the object of astronomical research. OU students, in the not-to-distant future, will have access to the new $15,000 telescope housed in the observatory on top of the Engineering-Science Building.

With a groan, "I can't take another step," and seldom-used muscles complaining in unison against the torture they were enduring, we trekked to the top of East Hill. Athens sprawled below us and midget haystacks dotted the fields like checkers on a checkerboard. Art students would have enjoyed dabbling in the paintbox which nature had used to color the landscape.

Homecoming — 1950 — has come and gone, and the picture is probably a little faded, but the memory is a happy one. "Don't push me back, I came a long way to see this," was one of the comments overheard in the "sardine-packed" crowd waiting for the parade to begin.

The floats were a combination of ingenuity and beauty—if you were lucky enough to see them without having to peer over the shoulder of the 6'5" fellow in front of you. Even if the OU Bobcats didn't win the football game, at least they "tomahawked" Miami in the second half.

The traditional Delt "burning of the letters" in front of Lindley made more than a few persons remember the "good old college days." To the alums, both new and old, it was fun, wasn't it—and it was swell to see you back.

With The Faculty

■ Among faculty members participating in the 55th annual meeting of the Southeastern Ohio Education Association held on the campus last month were: Dr. George J. Kabat, dean of the College of Education; Dr. Carl H. Roberts, '30, assistant professor of education; Agnes Eisen, '31, A.M. '33, critic teacher at the Putnam Elementary Training School; Mary Blayney, assistant professor of music; Dr. George A. Beauchamp, principal of the Putnam school; Dr. Karl Ahrendt, director of the School of Music; Dr. John F. Cady, professor of history; Robert C. Wickham, '36, instructor in engineering drawing; Carl T. Nessley, associate professor of physical education and athletics; Athletic Director Carroll C. Widdoes; Coach James Snyder, '41; Dr. C. L. Dow, chairman of the Department of Geography and Geology; Dr. F. L. Shoemaker, professor of education; Prof. Frederick McKelvey, director of the Center of Educational Service.

Mrs. Evelyn Luchs, '27, University trustee, was a featured speaker at the meeting of the women's groups.

■ Three book reviews by Dr. P. G. Krauss, associate professor of German, appeared in the recent issue of The German Quarterly, published by the American Association of Teachers of German.

■ Prof. E. H. Gaylord, chairman of the department of civil engineering, has been reappointed to the American Society for Engineering Education Committee on Student-Faculty evaluation. He is also vice-chairman of the society's civil engineering division for 1950-51.

■ Registrar Robert E. Mahn has written several articles that have appeared in education magazines recently. Featured in the October issue of College and University was his latest article, entitled "The Considerate Effective Letter."

■ Miss Dora Moore, head cataloguer at the University Library, has retired after 26 years of service. Joining the staff in 1926, she served as acting librarian in 1928-29.

■ Albert C. Gubitz, director of the Bureau of Appointments, has been elected vice president of the Midwest College Placement Association. Professor Gubitz was named at a recent two-day session of the association in Detroit. Some 50 colleges and universities were represented, along with 130 personnel directors of national industries.

■ Prof. George Starr Lasher, director of the School of Journalism, was singled out for honors at the 94th convention of Theta Chi fraternity in Minneapolis. Professor Lasher's recognition came for his 25 years of service in editing the fraternity magazine and for outstanding effort in general fraternity activities.

■ Dr. Victor Goedicke, associate professor of mathematics and astronomy, has written a statistics book with emphasis on "interesting reading." The book is designed as a textbook and reference book for research in medicine, education, and the general sciences.

■ Dr. Elizabeth Andersch, associate professor of dramatic art and speech, was a visiting professor at Colorado State Teachers College during the 1950 summer session. She taught courses in speech correction and phonetics and directed the speech clinic.

Everything Except A Football Victory

THE 1950 HOMECOMING, the 27th, didn't produce a football victory, but it had about everything else needed to make the event a success. And those who saw the Bobcats' heroic second-half comeback against favored Miami had little trouble interpreting the 28 to 20 adverse score as a moral victory (see The Bobcat Sports Review, pages 12 and 13).

The weatherman was cooperative (perhaps in contrition for previous uncooperativeness), the crowd was in a proper "homecoming" mood, events were well timed, and hospitality, formal and spontaneous, was the watchword. Everything on the Homecoming agenda ran smoothly, from the Friday night pep rally, through the parade, football game, the president's, deans', and professors' reception in Cutler Hall, to the two public dances and numerous fraternity and sorority affairs Saturday night.

THIS YEAR'S TRADITIONAL pre-game float parade was one of the best. Thirty-six floats, a record number, participated. Paced by the University Marching Band, the long, colorful line moved down Columbus Road to Court Street and then to College Street, with the entire parade route lined with several thousand spectators. Interspersed among the floats were four high school bands—Athens, Chauncey-Dover, The Plains, and Murray City.

Phi Kappa took first honors for men in the float competition. The Phi Kappa entry was a realistic staging of the famous "End of the Trail," the dejected figure of the lone Indian astride his horse and with his lance dipped in defeat. The bronze-painted Indian (see picture) was Richard Walker, sophomore from Maple Heights.

Second place for men's floats went to Lambda Chi. The Lambda Chi entry was labeled "We'll SphFIX Miami." It portrayed a giant sphinx followed by slaves carrying mummy cases.

Among the women, Sigma Kappa's float was judged the best. Their float carried the assertion, in a double play upon words, that "O'Uke Can String Miami." In the picture are, seated, Peggy Quinn, New York junior (left), and Juanita Powell, sophomore from Charleston. Standing at the "uke" are (left) Senior Annette Campbell, of Cleveland, and Donna Lou Poole, Portsmouth sophomore.

Second place for women's float entries was won by Phi Mu with their "Castanet Over Miami" theme, which depicted an OU-Mexican dancer casting her net over Miami dancers.

ELEVEN FRATERNITIES entered the house decorating competition, which was restricted to men. Delta Tau Delta took first prize and Theta Chi second. The winning house decoration (see picture) showed a giant Bobcat (football version) fishing for "suckers." The fish in football togs were, of course, Miami—ready to grab the hook—Cincinnati, Buffalo, Western Michigan, and Marshall, swimming around waiting their turn.

Theta Chi's decoration had the Bobcat running a slot machine, hoping to hit a victory that would "Make Miami Pay."

Space isn't sufficient to permit description of all the floats and house decorations. All of them were well done, and each hard-working group that made an entry is to be commended.

The Miami Indians were subjected to a variety of parade tortures, including the Agricultural Club's "plowing them under," the Women's Independent Association mixing them up in a huge mixing bowl, an electrocution by Scott Quadrangle, and East Green's golfers "teeing off" on them.

University Host to SEO Publishers

The University and the School of Journalism played host to the Southeastern Ohio Newspaper Association at its first Newspaper Show and Clinic, held in conjunction with the association's annual meeting last month.

Some 45 publishers, editors, and their wives, representing 21 daily and weekly newspapers in the area, attended the October 13 afternoon and evening affair. They were also guests of the University at the Bobcat-Western Reserve football game the following day.

The show and clinic was conducted by the School of Journalism staff in the gallery of the Edwin Watts Chubb Library. Prior to the show, the journalism faculty had evaluated three successive issues of the participating papers. The papers and the evaluations of them were displayed during the three-hour clinic and roundtable discussion of newspaper problems. The roundtable was made up of the journalism faculty and presided over by Harold W. Wetherholt, Gallipolis, president of the association.

Faculty members who participated were Director George Starr Lasher, L. J. Hortin, A. T. Turnbull, M. S. '48, Vic Sherow, '29, John Carpenter, and Robert W. McCreanor, B.S.J. '48, M.S. '49.

President Baker officially welcomed the visitors to the campus at a dinner tendered them in Lindley Hall. The president expressed the hope that the show and clinic would become an "important annual affair." He told the publishers and editors that they and the University are engaged in a common crusade of bringing enlightenment and understanding to Southeastern Ohio. He outlined the University's quest for quality in its instruction and urged the newspaper people to improve the quality of their papers by improving the quality of their communities.

The president advised the publishers to give the same time, attention, and money to research toward the building up of sound editorial programs that have been given to the business side of publishing. He pointed out to them that if the press "presents the facts of the times," it can clear up the "confusion of the people." He told the newspaper men and women that at this "turning point in the history of the world" newspapers and universities share a "responsibility for freedom."

President Baker introduced H. B. Jordan, president of the American Steel and Wire Co., Cleveland, who spoke briefly. Mr. Jordan, a high school classmate of Dr. Baker, was a weekend guest of the president.

Ray Palmer, publisher of the Barnesville Enterprise and president of the Buckeye Press Association, prefaced his address to the Southeastern Ohio publishers and editors with a more than perfunctory compliment to the University and the School of Journalism. He termed the clinic and show one of the best he ever attended and the newspaper display "the best I have seen."

Mr. Palmer took as his topic "Second Mile Newspapers." He told his fellow publishers and editors that they must be ready to do the things they "don't have to do—to go the voluntary 'second mile' as well as the obligatory first mile" in providing their communities with newspapers.

The Barnesville publisher, whose paper consistently wins awards in competitive

... industrial editor

ALUMNUS NAMED TO HEAD WORLD-WIDE EDITORS GROUP

Clarence S. Bolen, '26, Atlanta, Ga., editor of the Southern Telephone News, magazine for Southern Bell employees, is the newly-elected president of the International Council of Industrial Editors.

The council is an organization of 2500 editors of industrial publications in this country, Canada, Great Britain, Hawaii, South Africa, and other foreign countries. There are 30 member associations.

Mr. Bolen joined the public relations department of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co., Atlanta, Ga., in 1929. In 1939 he became editor of the company's employee publication, which is distributed monthly to some 60,000 readers in nine southeastern states.

He has been influential for some time in promoting the prestige of industrial journalism. As vice president of the ICIE for 1949-50, he was chairman of the group's 1950 Pittsburgh convention. Prior to that, he was southern vice president of the ICIE as well as president of the Southern Industrial Editors Association. With the cooperation of Dean John Drewry, of the Henry W. Grady School of Journalism at the University of Georgia, Mr. Bolen initiated the Southern Industrial Editors' Institute, which is held annually at Athens, Ga.

The Ohioan is a member of the Advisory Board of the Division of Journalism, Emory University. He is a member of the House Magazine Advisory Committee of the Advertising Council, Inc., and the U. S. Treasury Advisory Committee.

East Green Dormitory Construction to Start

Plans are virtually completed for the first men's dormitory in what is hoped will be an 11-dorm group on the East Green.

University Engineer L. F. Lausche said that bids will be taken early in December. He said that with "good luck" construction might start in January and with "lots of luck" the dormitory may be done by fall of 1951.

The building is to be a fireproof, brick colonial-style structure two-stories high, but with a central three-story portion. It is designed for 116 students, with two students in a room. The building also calls for an apartment for the head-of-residence and a large lounge.

Residents of the new dorm will use the existing East Green cafeteria. Mr.

PROJECTED EAST GREEN DORM
... with "lots of luck" ready by fall

Lausche stated that as other dorms are built, the cafeteria will be rebuilt to meet enlarged needs.

Long-range plans for the East Green campus area, said Mr. Lausche, estimate a building budget of $5,000,000 on the basis of current prices. He said that the project could result in "one of the finest group of dorms on any campus."

Development of the 11-acre East Green, which is bordered on the north by E. Union St. and on the east by Stewart St., was begun immediately after World War II when the need for expansion became apparent. The University spent more than $100,000 in fills, roads, sewers, and drainage, and the federal government furnished temporary housing units. Almost 700 men have been housed in the area each year since it was opened up. The temporary buildings will be removed as room is needed for the new permanent structures.

Home Ec Grad Wins National Award

Miss Mary Elizabeth Huck, '44, home service director of The Ohio Fuel Gas Co., is this year's winner of the Gas Industry's Home Service Achievement Award. The award is sponsored annually by McCall's magazine for the advancement of better living through gas appliances.

Miss Huck's award was made for the advancement in modern homemaking achieved by the 1950 Gasco Food Institute, the traveling food show which last year drew some 62,000 persons to cooking schools held in 41 Ohio communities.

The award, a prizeplaque, is accompanied by a $200 cash prize. The presentation was made at the American Gas Association convention in Atlantic City. Shown discussing the award are Miss Huck and W. N. Grinstead, vice president and general manager of The Gas Co.

Mary Elizabeth is a graduate of the School of Home Economics. She is a sister of Margaret Ann Huck, a graduate of the School in 1948, who is now regional home economist in St. Louis for the Crosley Corporation.

Another sister, Joan, '42, (Mrs. Frank E. Hodgdon) formerly was a research engineer in the testing laboratory of The Gas Co. in Cleveland and supervisor, mixed gas research division, of the American Gas Association, Cleveland. A third sister, Maxine Huck, '50x, is associated with the Mt. Carmel Hospital. A brother, Clemence Joseph Huck, is a junior at the University.

According to Miss Huck, six other alumnae are Ohio Fuel Gas Co. home economists: Mrs. Catherine Richards Knecht, '50, Toledo home service adviser; Betty Lamb, '48, Mansfield district home service director; Mrs. Marian Chase Bieberbach, '47, Newark home service adviser; Mrs. Shirley Feeney Burns, '47, Chillicothe home service adviser; Mrs. Eva Dutton Stout, '44, Fremont district director; Enid Parrett, '33, Gasco Food Institute lecturer, Columbus.

The Bobcat Sports Review

By Jack Hostutler '50

A 20 POINT OUTBURST in the last 16 minutes of play was not quite enough for the Ohio University Bobcats as they sought to erase a 28-point lead held by the Miami University Redskins in the 27th annual Homecoming game for the Bobcats. The final score read OHIO U. 20, Miami 28, and for the sixth straight year the Bobcats had tasted defeat at the hands of the Redskins.

The loss brought the Bobcats' season record to three wins and three losses.

Although Miami was a four to five-touchdown favorite before the game, the Bobcats gave them everything they could handle, and the Redskins left the stadium well satisfied to escape with a victory.

A late third-period touchdown by Captain Quinn Stumpf marked the first time since 1946 that an OU squad had scored on the Redskins, and it also marked the beginning of a rally by the Bobcats that came close to turning a certain Miami victory into a possible tie game.

Except for one man, Jim "Boxcar" Bailey, the Bobcats completely throttled the Miami offensive machine, which prior to the OU game had outgained its opponents more than three to one in rushing. Bailey proved to be everything the Bobcats had heard about him and then some. He scored three of the four Miami touchdowns and was a constant threat throughout the afternoon. The former All-Ohio high school halfback from Hamilton broke loose early in the first quarter for a 66-yard run and the first Miami TD. The Redskins added another marker in the second quarter on a pass from quarterback Norbert Wirkowski to end Clive Rush that covered 90 yards. The third Miami touchdown came in the third period on a 44-yard screen pass from Wirkowski to Bailey. A 90-yard run by Bailey six minutes later climaxed the Miami scoring for the day.

Shortly after this the Bobcats came to life on an 85-yard run by Stumpf, only to have it called back because of an Ohio offside. Two plays later, halfback Bob Haug picked up 55 yards to the Miami 34. After gaining only two yards on the next play, Stumpf plowed through right tackle for 32 yards and the Bobcats first TD with one-half minute remaining in the third period. An intercepted pass by Bill Bevan helped set up the second OU touchdown. Following an exchange of fumbles, the Bobcats recovered on the Miami 45 and finally scored in five plays on a 31-yard pass from halfback Bob Haug to halfback Dick Davis in the end zone. With Haug and Marchi alternating in carrying the ball, the Bobcats added another score with four and one-half minutes left to play. When Bevan, who had kicked both the extra points after the first two touchdowns missed on his try for the third one, the Bobcats hopes ebbed, as there didn't appear to be enough time left to get two touchdowns needed to win.

THE BOBCATS WERE UPSET a week prior to the Miami tilt by a vastly-improved Kent State squad 35 to 13 after winning from Western Reserve 35 to 0 and Butler 21 to 14 the two previous games.

In contrast to the Western Reserve game when the Bobcats seemed to be doing everything right, the Kent game found them over-optimistic and every time OU made a mistake, Kent capitalized with a touchdown.

Three touchdown passes by quarterback Tom Anderson paced the Bobcats to the triumph over Western Reserve. The other two Ohio scores came on an 88-yard run by Ed Roberts, the team's leading ground gainer in the first six games, and a 75-yard-punt return for a TD by halfback Dick Phillips. Phillips' punt return was the second in two weeks, the first covering a distance of 80 yards against Butler the previous week. The Bobcats had their hands full in the Butler game as they suffered a letdown following an all-out effort against Illinois.

AL SCHEIDER CONTINUED to be the outstanding defensive star for the Bobcats, and seemed to improve with each game. Ed Roberts has averaged 5.5 yards in the 55 times he has carried the ball and holds the lead in the rushing department. Tom Anderson is the leading passer having completed 32 of 87 passes for 521 yards and six touchdowns, while Nick Fogoros leads in pass receiving with 12 catches good for 122 yards. Captain Quinn Stumpf is the leading scorer with 24 points and Red Davis, who has done all the punting, has an average of 40.1 yards per kick.

DISPLAYING AN AERIAL GAME which would make many an inter-collegiate coach's mouth water, the girls of Pi Beta Phi sorority completely outclassed the Alpha Xi Delta girls to score a 31 to 0 victory in the fourth annual Powder Bowl football game Oct. 22 at Ohio Stadium.

The game was played before a record crowd of nearly 5,000 under perfect weather conditions and netted more than $600 for the Damon Runyon Cancer fund, a record amount.

The Pi Phis, favorites of Francis Wallace, football prognosticator, in his pre-season football review, lost little time in jumping into the scoring column, marking up their first six points a few minutes after the game started. Their five touchdowns all were scored as the result of passes as was the single point-after tallied.

Three girls playing in their fourth and final year—Mary Newkirk, of Akron, Catherine Brown, of Toledo, and Nancy Stockwell, of Cleveland Heights—stood out for the winners. Maggie Scott, of Athens, playing her second year, was on the receiving end of a forward pass from Stockwell that netted 42 yards and the first touchdown. Another first quarter tally was made by Newkirk who intercepted an Alpha Xi pass and went 55 yards to pay dirt. Stockwell passed to Brown for the extra point.

In the second quarter, Brown went over on a 10-yard pass from Stockwell. A Stockwell-Newkirk pass went for 75 yards and the lone third-period score, while another Stockwell-Brown pass good for 53 yards netted the final quarter marker.

FOURTH ANNUAL POWDER BOWL

Stockwell to Newkirk for Touchdown

The Alpha Xi's were outclassed both on the ground and in the air and never seriously threatened to score. Both teams were penalized several times for unnecessary roughness, going beyond the two-hands-below-the-waist tackle, which was legal. No serious injuries were reported.

The three previous games had ended in tie scores.

THE BOBCAT FRESHMEN footballers won their first contest in three starts when they trounced the Marietta College frosh 59 to 0 after dropping games to the University of Pittsburgh frosh 34 to 7 and the Cincinnati yearlings 7 to 0.

The Bobkitten squad is much better than the overall record indicates, and this probably will be borne out in their remaining three games.

The Pittsburgh contest was played in a sea of mud at Uniontown, Pa., and OU fumbles or other miscues led to all of the Pitt scores. Fumbleitis also played a large part in the Cincinnati contest as the Bobkittens fumbled nine times and recovered only twice. Against Marietta they appeared to hit their stride and the speed which they were reputed to possess really became evident.

Led by Fred Poling, from Lancaster, who tore off a 56-yard touchdown run the first time he carried the ball, the OU team completely trampled the Marietta squad. Poling also scored the only touchdown of the Pitt game on an 80-yard kickoff return.

Poling is not the only fleetly back on the frosh eleven. Dick Fleitz, of Newark, Charles Wilson, of Marietta, and Bob Frericks, of Crooksville, aid in giving the 1950 frosh team the reputation of being the fastest OU squad in a number of years.

The next freshman game is against Bowling Green on Nov. 3 in their last home game, followed by tilts with Miami at Oxford on November 10 and Marshall College at Huntington, W. Va., in a night game on November 17.

FIFTEEN MEN INCLUDING FIVE lettermen, are reporting for practice four days a week for the 1950-51 edition of the Ohio University basketball squad. Two others now playing football will join the daily practice when the grid season ends.

Practice sessions run from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and will continue on this schedule until football season ends, when Coach Jim Snyder, who also doubles as backfield coach of the grid squad, will change to afternoon workouts five days a week.

Included among those who are working out are lettermen Chuck Renner, Dave Leightenheimer, Jack Betts, Elwood Sparks, and Glen Hursey. Jack Schumacher, Tommy Haswell, Lee Williams, and Joe Benich have had previous varsity experience while Jerry Berry, Ralph Readout, Jack Williams, Dan Lechner, Harold Dougherty and Bill Frame were members of last year's freshman squad.

Vic Polosky, another letterman and Vince Costello, will report when football season ends.

The Bobcats open their home season against the Marietta College Pioneers, Dec. 5.

A NEW ERA IN OHIO University athletics was marked on Sept. 29 when 50 members of the Ohio University football team and staff took off in a giant DC-4 airplane from Port Columbus, enroute to Champaign, Illinois, for the football game with the University of Illinois.

The takeoff marked the beginning of the first airplane trip by an Ohio University athletic squad in the 146-year history of the University.

The flight also marked the first time that 29 members of the official party had ever flown.

One hour and 31 minutes from the time of departure the Bobcat-laden plane landed at the University of Illinois airport at Champaign. Following the game, the Bobcats climbed aboard the plane and headed back for the Buckeye state. The return trip took one hour and 33 minutes, two minutes slower than the flight out.

It was last spring when the Athletic Department and the university began to consider the possibility of traveling by air. According to Athletic Director Carroll C. Widdoes, the use of air travel in the future depends on the particular trip and the time saved.

The Bobcats will fly to Buffalo for the Nov. 11 game with the University of Buffalo Bulls.

It may very well be that in the future many of the OU athletic teams will be traveling by airplane. But come what may, an OU athletic team has been transported to an intercollegiate contest by air and the 1950 football squad was the first.

RICHARD "RED" DAVIS, OU's punting specialist for the past three years is one of the top punters in the nation among small colleges. The 172-pound senior from Marion in seven games this fall booted the ball 1244 yards in 31 punts. He was eleventh in the nation following the Miami game with an average of 40.1 yards per kick. The leader at that time was Ken Wheller of Marshall College, with an average of 43.5 yards per punt. Davis runs from the fullback position and is no relation to the other Richard Davis who is the Bobcats' top right half from Toledo.

Korean Problems Are World Problems

By Duck Hi Lee

(This article by Mr. Lee, the first Korean ever to enroll at Ohio University, appeared recently in The Athens Messenger.—The Editor)

People often ask me what part of Korea I am from. I'm a Korean, not a North Korean or a South Korean. These people who ask don't understand the problem.

Korean people are a homogeneous race. They have had the same language, culture, religion, economics and politics for the past 4200 years. The only difference now is that since the end of World War II the Korean people have been living under two different types of government.

Korean civilization is one of the oldest in the world, going back 4200 years when a man by the name of Dan Goon founded the country. The story of Korea is one of progress and culture.

The historical name of Korea, Chosen, means Land of Morning Calm. This name is significant when one considers that throughout Korea's long history it has enjoyed a stability and continuity that few nations can claim.

Korea has a cultural heritage that is uniquely her own. It reached a high level in languages, arts, sciences, and ethics centuries before the West. Korea's scholars developed an encyclopedia 300 years before the encyclopedia movement in France.

The world's oldest continuous record of rainfall has been kept in Korea since 1442. The first iron-clad battleships were built by Korea to defeat Japan in the war of 1592-1598.

Koreans base their ethics upon five loyalties; to country, to parents, to husband or wife, to children, and to friends.

Korea's ancient religion, Shintoism, teaches one God and personal sin and punishment, as does Christianity. Christian missionaries have been in Korea since 1835 and call the nation the most Christian land in the Orient.

Women of Korea enjoy the highest status of any women in Asia. Women as well as men over 21 enjoy the vote, and Korean women are engaged in professions and occupations open to women in the United States.

For many centuries the Japanese have called Korea the Treasure Land of the East. In coal and various other mineral deposits and in hydro-electric power-potential Korea is rich.

Japan and Russia have made repeated attempts to take over the Korean peninsula. Japan wanted it as a springboard in its ambitions to conquer Asia. Russia has always had the problem of sea outlets, and the warm water ports of Korea are an ideal answer to this problem.

In 1905, as a result of the Russo-Japanese War, Korea was made a protectorate of Japan. Five years later the Japanese quietly annexed the country into the empire.

Throughout the Japanese occupation, the Koreans kept alive their desire for independence. One-tenth of the entire population fled into the hills or across the border into Manchuria and Siberia and formed guerrilla units.

Korea's protest against Japanese rule reached a climax when the "Passive Revolution" got under way in March, 1919. In this uprising, three years ahead of Ghandi's peaceful rebellions in India, the Korean people bore no arms against the Japanese and made no effort to harm them physically. As a result of this passive revolution, a Korean provisional government was set up.

During the war, steps were taken to make Korea a "free and independent" nation. It was at the Cairo meeting of the United States, Great Britain and China that the following proclamation was made:

"The aforesaid three great powers, mindful of the enslavement of the people of Korea, are determined that in due course Korea shall become free and independent." And when Russia declared war on Japan, it, too, joined in this pledge of freedom for Korea.

A wartime agreement, which was intended to be a temporary measure, divided Korea into two parts. Russian troops occupied 56 percent of the country, north of the 38th parallel, and American forces occupied 44 percent of the land, south of the 38th parallel.

This division, cutting like a knife across the country, has isolated farmsteads from fields, factories from sources of power and raw material, cities from markets and members of families from each other.

Korean people never expected to see foreign armies on their land. When Japan gave up, her soldiers were disarmed by Korean soldiers and Korean students.

When it became known that a secret agreement had been drawn up which would split the country in two, the people's dream for independence was shattered. Koreans have wanted a unified country and freedom. They believe this to be a basic right of all nations.

Duck Hi Lee is a member of a family which has played a part in the history of Korea.

Mr. Lee, who entered Ohio University this fall to study chemistry, is a nephew of a former Korean chief of defense, a brother-in-law of a South Korean army colonel, and a cousin of a major general in the South Korean army. Another cousin is a general in the Chinese army of Chiang Kai-Shek.

Mr. Lee is a resident of Seoul, capital of South Korea. However, he spent his boyhood in what is known as North Korea, at Pyongyang, the present capital. His mother, Mrs. Hyun Soak Lee, still is in North Korea, so far as Lee knows.

Also in Pyongyang is a brother, C. H. Lee. Mr. Lee's father died about a year ago.

A sister, Mrs. Chung Hi Lee, is in Seoul, her husband being a colonel in the South Korean army, Mr. Lee relates. Another member of the family, Maj. Gen. Lee Huing Koon, also is with the South Korean army. He was graduated at Fort Benning, Ga.

Still another member of the family, Gen. Y. H. Lee is stationed in Formosa with Chiang's forces.

An uncle, Lee Kap, was chief of defense for Korea at the time of the annexation by Japan. He fled to Siberia, then to New York, but was not permitted to land. He went to Germany, and died there 25 or 30 years ago, Mr. Lee says.

With two years of study at the Seoul National University behind him, Mr. Lee, 23, will complete work for a bachelor's degree, then plans to obtain a master's degree. Before coming to Ohio University, he attended Fullerton Junior College, Fullerton, Calif.

When the great powers announced a plan for a five-year trusteeship over all of Korea, which was to be administered jointly by the United States, China, Great Britain and the Soviet Union, thirty million Koreans joined as one in protest.

It became apparent, during the two years that followed, that the Soviet Union viewed "trusteeship" as merely a preliminary step toward taking the country over.

Finally, the question of Korean inde-

If you passed Librarian Frank Jones on the Green, you might understandably mistake him for a slightly—just slightly—over-age Bobcat fullback. It's been more than 20 years, however, since Frank Nicholas Jones played football. But he was young enough to run interference for General Patton across Europe just five years ago.

Into the last 20 of his 44 years, Librarian Jones has crowded a lot of experience and accumulated considerable distinction in his field, beginning with an A.B. degree from Harvard in 1930 and culminating in his appointment as Ohio University Librarian a year and a half ago. In the interim, he got a master's from Harvard, a B.S. in library science from Columbia, and held administrative positions in the Association of the Bar Library in New York, the New York Public Library, the Boston Public Library, and the Newburyport Public Library. He left Harvard's Lamont pendence was submitted to the United Nations. A commission consisting of representatives of Australia, Canada, China, El Salvador, France, India, the Philippines, and Syria attempted to carry out a mandate for an all-Korea election. The Russians blocked this attempt by refusing to permit the commission to go into North Korea.

Despite the fact that Russia refused to let a United Nations Commission enter the northern zone, the UN group conducted elections in the part occupied by the United States on May 10, 1948. Representatives who were elected to the National Assembly chose Syngman Rhee as president. The Republic of Korea was inaugurated August 15.

After the inauguration of the Republic, the American Military Government turned the administration of Korea over to the new Korean government. Almost all American troops had left Korea by the end of June, 1949.

The Republic of Korea received overwhelming approval in the General Assembly of the United Nations as the only lawful government in Korea. In full cooperation with the United Nations Commission in Korea, we have sought by every means in our power to extend to our oppressed fellow countrymen north of the 38th parallel a full right of self-representation and free participation in their country's government.

Library to accept the Ohio University appointment.

Librarian Jones brought to Ohio University a philosophy that proposes, succinctly: "Get the students and the books together more often."

The way to achieve this, he declares, is to make the books easily accessible to the students. He terms the college library, when it functions properly—that is, when it shows facility in bringing students and books together—"the hub of the academic wheel."

Mr. Jones has cut regulation and supervision to the minimum, has set up checkout desks at all exits from the library to speed up the checking out of books, and is steadily increasing the number of "open shelves."

Probably the first Jones-effected change alumni would notice in the library are the new lights in the periodical and reserve reading rooms. A rearrangement of card cabinets and other furniture has eased the traffic problem in the library, and plans call for the library to seat some 300 to 400 more than its previous capacity of 600.

Librarian Jones is a master—in the strictest sense of the term—of the science of library service. He knows his job, and in a quietly competent, inoffensive but sure way he does it. He knows the best

This effort, however, has been nullified by the ruthless refusal of the Communist puppet regime in the North to cooperate with the UN and to follow the will of the nine million captive Korean patriots held under their police control.

It was the Communists who kept North Korea separated from South Korea, after 40 centuries of unity. We realize that there is a little group of men far away from Korea who search and sulk for power. We know their weapons. Assassination is the number one tenet of their attempt to seize control of the entire world.

Southern Korean people expected the northern Koreans' invasion for two reasons. One is the ideology of Communists and the other is the economic factor.

Most of the industries are located in the north. The south is agricultural. Ten million persons live in the north but there is not enough food. Neither side can survive without the exchange of goods. Unification is our life. We have to choose either unification or death.

The morale and loyalty of the Southern army were of the highest, although there was concern because the army did not possess a single combat plane or any tanks heavy enough to stop opposing tanks.

On June 25 the expected North Korean invasion came. But there was no of established practice in his field and the principles upon which to initiate sound new practices. Perhaps one of the secrets of his competency is his willingness to listen. way to stop it.

The U. S., with the sanction of the UN, took a calculated interest in throwing her strength into the battle. Having made that decision, she could not withdraw. However, to us Korean people, whose land is torn by strife, the U. S. must make her hopes our hopes.

To win a war the moral support of the people is infinitely valuable. As a Korean, I am strongly against indiscriminate bombing by the United Nations. Korea does not have many military installations or ammunition factories which could be military targets. Korea was kept by the Japanese primarily as a supplier of raw materials and as a market for its own surplus goods. The UN is warning the Koreans to evacuate their cities and towns, which have been their homes for generations.

My people realize what Communism means, but repeated indiscriminate bombings of their cities and towns may cause the Korean people to turn against the United Nations. That is what I am afraid of.

The problems of my country are the problems of the world. This is a global struggle to safeguard democracy against the aggressive drive of totalitarian Communism.

Our cause is the cause of all mankind. We would fight alone if necessary, but we know we are not alone.

University Lists New Faculty; Putnam Principal Is Appointed

Dr. George Beauchamp, former Michigan school principal and Veterans Administration officer, has been named principal of the Rufus Putnam Elementary School at Ohio University, succeeding Dr. Wilbur Yauch.

Dr. Beauchamp, who received his doctor's degree last summer from the University of Michigan, has been appointed associate professor of education. He will teach elementary education courses in addition to serving as principal of the elementary school and curriculum adviser for all Athens elementary schools.

A native of Port Huron, Mich., he received his high school education at Roosevelt High in Ypsilanti, Mich., his bachelor's degree from Michigan State Normal College at Ypsilanti, and his master's in education from Wayne University, Detroit, in 1939. He served for nine years as principal and teacher of the Bloomfield Township School at Birmingham, Mich., was a communications officer in the U. S. Navy for two years, and for the last four years was vocational, rehabilitation and education officer with the VA in Detroit. He also served as assistant to the director of the U. of Michigan elementary training school.

Dr. Yauch will devote his full time to teaching professional courses in elementary education and to his writing. He has a contract to write his second book on elementary education. His first book, accepted two years ago, was chosen last year through a national poll of educators as one of the best educational books of the year.

... administrator

Dr. Carl H. Denbow, who previously served some 10 years on the faculty, has returned as professor of mathematics. Dr. Denbow was associate professor of mathematics when he left the University in 1946. Since then he has been associate professor of mathematics and mechanics at the Naval Coast Guard Postgraduate School in Annapolis.

Dr. Milton Steinhardt, who holds degrees from the Eastman School of Music and New York University, has been appointed associate professor of musicology.

Other new appointees, with the schools from which they have degrees shown in parentheses, are:

Assistant professors: Ralph E. Abbott (N. Hampshire), geography and geology (Professor Abbott was on the faculty from 1946 to 1948); James V. Lawrence (Illinois, Ohio State), bacteriology; E. P. Lynn (Coe, Iowa State), education; Robert L. Patrick (Illinois, S. Illinois), business law; Dr. James A. Randall, Jr. (Kalamazoo, Cornell, Michigan), physics; Warren H. Reininga (Indiana, Evansville), accounting.

Acting assistant professors: Dr. H. Otto Dahlke (Illinois, Wisconsin), and Mary L. Hamilton (Ohio State), both sociology.

Instructors: Ahmin Ali (Texas, Cal-Aero Tech), civil engineering; Allyn Bane (Illinois State Normal, Columbia), home economics; Catherine Campbell (Campbell Jr. College, Meridith College, Woman's College of Greensboro, N. C.), home economics; Burton W. DeVeau (Iowa State, Cornell), agriculture; John S. Dickey (Pittsburgh), economics; David L. Hostetler (Indiana, Ohio '49), ceramics; Eugene Jennings (Kansas), piano; Kate J. McKemie (Georgia State College for Women, New York), physical education and athletics; Julia J. Nehls (Muskingum, Ohio '50), home economics; Myra Jo Preston (Arlington State, North Texas State, Eastman School of Music), theory; Arthur W. Sherman, Jr. (Ohio '40, Indiana), psychology (Mr. Sherman was formerly on the psychology faculty); Lee Soltow (Wisconsin), statistics; George K. Tinetti (Stout Institute), industrial arts; Glen A. Weinart (Michigan), mechanical engineering.

Acting instructors: A. Lincoln Fisch (Ohio Wesleyan, Wisconsin), mathematics; H. L. Hunzeker (Penn State Teachers, Iowa State), mathematics; Claire R. Kehrwald (New Jersey College for Women, Syracuse), English; Thomas J. Leflar (Arkansas A. & M., Kansas), English; Thomas S. Ludlum

Walrath (Ohio, '46, Ohio State), psychology. Several departments have named part-time instructors.

Dwight Mutchler, well-known artist, is visiting lecturer in drawing and Fred Brobst is part-time visiting lecturer in flute.

Fred Schleicher, Jr. '47, has been named part-time trainer and wrestling coach.

The University health service lists two new appointments: Dr. G. A. Russell, associate physician, and Dr. Axel Rudolph Nelson, assistant physician.

John Terlescki, '42, is assistant dean of men. He formerly was an assistant to the dean and head-of-residence at Scott Quadrangle. Kathryn A. Harries (Iowa State Teachers, Northwestern) is assistant dean of women. James B. Walton (Harvard, Columbia) is assistant to the librarian.

The ROTC staff shows 10 new appointments, including a major, two captains, five master sergeants, one sergeant first-class, and a sergeant. Their academic status ranges from full professors to instructors.

Alumni who are currently graduate assistants and fellows at the University include: Allan Bellin, '50, Dale A. Dunn, '50, and Joseph A. Vince, Jr., '47, education; James R. Davis, '49, psychology; Jean K. Ewing, '49, human relations; Thomas Fax, '49, and Edgar B. Singleton, '49, physics; Jack W. Jacobsen, '50, and Roberta L. Todd, '50, zoology; Patricia A. Lytle, '50, painting and allied arts; Neil E. Miller, '48, chemistry; Louis P. Papalias, '50, management.

'Articulate Average Man' Needed In Democracy, Says Dr. Kantner

... faculty lecturer

"Democracy is deeply rooted in the hope that the average man will be intelligently articulate," Dr. Claude E. Kantner told his audience of faculty, students, and townspeople at the fourth and final Faculty Lecture of the 1949-50 college year.

Dr. Kantner, nationally-known speech teacher and therapist, spoke from the subject "Speech and Education." He opined that speech teachers have flourished in societies with at least some aspects of democracy and when ideas were "freely exchanged and hotly contested." He called speech training "peculiarly American" and cited the continuing attention to and the development of speech training at Ohio University, beginning with the school's founding almost 150 years ago.

Declaring that many educators are genuinely concerned with the problem of how to prepare students for citizenship and active participation in a democratic society, the speaker asserted that teachers of speech are in a position to contribute greatly to that effort.

"We can teach the future citizen how to organize and present his ideas effectively," said Dr. Kantner. "We can teach him . . . the principles and techniques of free and open discussion and debate—and the standards of restraint and decency that must accompany such discussion. We can help him to develop ethical standards pertaining to the use and abuse of the power of speech. We can teach him to cherish and use his freedom of speech and to understand and accept the responsibilities and limitations of this freedom."

Dr. Kantner, director of the School of Dramatic Art and Speech, came to Ohio University in 1947 from the University of Oregon Medical School, where he had served as speech pathologist and acting director of the Crippled Children's Division.

Though interested in all aspects of the field of speech correction, he is the author of numerous articles and co-author of the book "Phonetics." He is a fellow in the Speech and Hearing Association and a member of the executive council of the American Speech Association. He has served as editor of the "Southern Speech Journal" and is now associate editor of the "Journal of Speech and Hearing Disorders."

Dr. Kantner distinguished between the political right of the freedom to speak and freedom of speech. He explained that the former can be guaranteed by a constitution and protected by laws, but only a person's ability and training can develop the latter. He said that there are hundreds of thousands of persons in all walks of life who, while they have the political freedom to speak, lack facility of freedom of speech.

He asserted that education in a democracy needs to concern itself with the problem of broadening through speech training the base of democracy, namely, participation by the individual in public affairs.

Earlier, Dr. Kantner discussed the meaning and implications of education and an educated person, as well as the role of a university in the education process. He declined to accept as a definition of an educated person merely "an individual who acquires a certain fund of information." While admitting that "our educated man" must possess a considerable body of knowledge, he declared that "this alone is not enough."

"Consequently, the acquiring of knowledge is not a suitable goal for a student nor is the imparting of knowledge the ultimate goal for a university," said Dr. Kantner.

The Faculty Lectures Committee has announced the speakers and topics for the 1950-51 Faculty Lectures series.

Dean Emeritus Irma E. Voigt will lecture November 20 on "Ohio Celebrates a Centennial in 1915." The other first semester lecture will be given by Librarian Frank N. Jones January 9. His subject will be "Books, Atoms, and the University."

The second semester lectures will be given by Dr. Frederick H. Krecker, professor of zoology, and Prof. Clinton N. Mackinnon, professor of English. Dr. Krecker's subject will be "Why We Inherit What We Inherit." Professor Mackinnon will discuss "The Artist As Liar—Daniel DeFoe." Dates for the last two lectures have not been announced. All lectures will be given in Chemistry Auditorium at 8 p.m. Open to the public, the lectures, presented each year since 1945, are designed to give faculty, students, and the community an opportunity to benefit from the scholarly work of the faculty of Ohio University.

McBEE COMPANY PRESIDENT DIES AT HOME IN ATHENS

David Roe Zenner, '14x, president of The McBee Company, died unexpectedly at his home in Athens, October 17, following a cerebral hemorrhage. He was 58 years of age.

Member of one of the pioneer families of Athens, Mr. Zenner was the son of Henry and Lillian May Roe Zenner and a grandson of David Zenner, who came to Athens a century ago and founded the D. Zenner Co., long the oldest and leading retail store in Athens County. Henry Zenner continued the department store and was one of the founders and an early president of The McBee Company.

Roe Zenner was born and reared in Athens. He attended the city schools and was a student at Ohio University from 1910-1913. He was graduated from Yale with a degree in mechanical engineering in 1916. Following almost two years of service in the Navy in World War I, he returned to Athens to become associated with his father in the McBee enterprise.

He became vice president of the company, the largest business in Athens, in 1926. He was named to the presidency in 1947 after the retirement of A. B. Roe. The McBee Company employs more than a thousand persons. Holder of the Keysort and other patents, it sells its business forms and filing and accounting systems throughout the world.

Mr. Zenner was a past commander of the K. T. Crossen Post, American Legion, former chairman of the Athens County Red Cross Chapter, former president of the Sheltering Arms Hospital 1932. He did additional research work at Temple University in 1935.

From 1928 to 1942, Mr. Edmund engaged in teaching and recreation organization and administration in Alexandria and Danville, Va., Haddon Heights, N. J., and Akron. In the latter year, he became manager of employee activities for the Goodyear Aircraft Corp. in Akron, serving in that capacity for two years.

The vice presidential nominee is currently president of the National Recreation Society. Recognized as a leader in the field of industrial recreation, he is called upon to address groups in all parts of the country. He is active in Kiwanis International, and is a past lieutenant governor of the Eleventh Ohio Division. Known on the campus for an unusually fine tenor voice, "Bid" still finds time to sing occasionally. He is married, has three children, and lives in Cuyahoga Falls.

Miss Herbert, a native of Cleveland, has been a teacher in her city's schools since 1922, the year of graduation from Ohio University. She has been a member of the English Department of John Adams High School, now the largest three-year high school in the state, for more than a score of years.

A former officer of the Ohio University Women's Club of Cleveland and a former member of the executive committee of the national alumni organization, she is currently a member of the the Alumni Survey Committee, a committee which has developed suggestions for an expansion and improvement of the general alumni program. It is hoped that a picture of Miss Herbert will be available for reproduction in next month's Alumnus.

The Cleveland lady is a sister of Thomas J. Herbert, a World War I flying ace and a former governor of Ohio. She is also a sister of Mrs. Kathryn Herbert Kinnison, '14, 2-yr., Jackson. Two nieces are Mrs. Dale T. Millns (Jane Kinnison, '44), Berea, and Mrs. Robert E. Sumner (Elizabeth Kinnison, '47x), Rock Hill, S. C.

Thumbnail sketches of Mr. Williams, executive secretary of the Alumni Association since 1922, and of Mr. Fenzel, who has held the post of treasurer since 1922, have appeared on previous occasions.

Mr. Williams married the former Marie E. Jewett, '22, and is the father of three children, Barbara, 15, and Carolyn and Clark, Jr., 11, twins.

Mr. Fenzel, who was born in Athens, is associate professor of accounting and economic geography at Ohio University and is the oldest member of the College of Commerce faculty in point of service. He was awarded the two-year diploma in commerce in 1915 and then attended New York University from which he received the B.C.S. degree in 1917. Another year spent at Ohio University brought an A.B. degree, in 1918. He has done graduate work at Chicago University. Prior to assuming his present alumni position, he was treasurer of the Ohio University Athletic Association.

In 1917, Mr. Zenner married Pauline Shepherd, A.M. '32. The Zenners have two sons, Philip, IV, and Gregory, both associated with McBee.

Among other survivors is his uncle, Dr. Phillip Zenner, A.B. '70, A.M. '73, of Cincinnati, who is Ohio University's oldest living alumnus.

Honorary pallbearers included Roger J. Jones, '13, Gordon K. Bush, '24, Dr. T. H. Morgan, '25x, Oscar Fulton, '14x, and Byron A. Wolfe, '16x, all of Athens; Harry McBee, '12, St. Louis, Mo.; and Charles E. Nye, '16, Cleveland.

shows, underscored President Baker's request for quality. He warned the publishers that what they receive in reader allegiance and advertising revenue will be in proportion to what they give in service to their communities and in appearance and content of their newspapers.

Illness prevented R. Kenneth Kerr, president of the Ohio Newspaper Association and publisher of the Lancaster Eagle-Gazette, from delivering his scheduled address on "Newspaper Problems." His message, of special interest to the publishers, was presented by William Ortell, field agent for the Ohio association.

Mr. Hortin, a member of the School of Journalism faculty since 1947, was reelected secretary of the Southeastern Ohio newspaper group. Other officers named were Mr. Wetherholt, reelected president, and Ronald Shoup, Perry County Tribune publisher, vice-president.

THANKSGIVING DAY GAME

FOLK OPERA SCHEDULED FOR AKRON SHOWING

The "Smoky Mountain Opera," presented on the campus last spring by University and Athens talent, is to be presented in Akron.

The folk opera, an original production, will be given at the annual convention of the Ohio Music Educators. In addition to the evening performance of the opera, a workshop-rehearsal directed by Prof. Christopher Lane, of the School of Dramatic Art and Speech, also will be given. Seven principals from the Athens show will play their roles in Akron.

The Akron production will be given in Central High School Auditorium, December 1, at 8:30 p.m. Mrs. Maurel Hunkins, wife of Dean of Men Maurel Hunkins, directed the original show and will serve in an advisory capacity at the Akron presentation. Some 600 seats will be available to the public, she said.

Members of the original company who will take part in the Akron production include Mrs. Nell Foster Shaynen, '42, Mrs. Frances Gray Elliott, '26, M.A. '31, and Mrs. Thelma Bingman Robinson, '29x.

HOMECOMING

The half-time show put on by the University Marching Band sparkled, showing a timing and showmanship that was professional. Simulating a three-ring circus, with band members forming the rings, it contained some form of all the entertainment peculiar to the "big top."

Voiced pride of alumni in the band, resplendent in its new green and white uniforms, was not hard to find.

COMMUNITY CONCERT DATES ANNOUNCED FOR 1950-51

Dates for the appearances of the four artists in the 1950-51 Community Concert Series have been announced by the Athens Community Concert Association.

Violinist Paul Makovsky will open the series November 19, followed by the well-known Alec Templeton December 2. The Ballet Russe is scheduled for January 17. David Lloyd, tenor, will close the series March 9.

Here and There Among the Alumni

The modest frame home near Tupper's Plains which was the birthplace of MARGARET BOYD, A.B. '73, A.M. '76, first woman graduate of Ohio University, was pictured in a mid-summer issue of The Athens Messenger together with an extremely interesting story on the Boyd family written by CHARLES HARRIS, '06, Messenger staff writer and former managing editor. Daniel Boyd, a Scotchman and father of Margaret, came to America 130 years ago from northern Ireland. He walked over the mountains from Philadelphia to Steubenville where he taught school and was a weaver. In 1827, he located in Coshocton County where he suffered severe financial losses in a business enterprise. He then moved to a farm in Athens County where he worked for 30 years until his debts were all paid. Daniel Boyd was interested in the country schools and in Ohio University. In 1825, he married Jane Elliott, sister of Rev. Charles Elliott, widely known as a Methodist minister, educator and author. They were the parents of nine children, all of them now dead. One of the children HUGH BOYD, '59, was a Methodist minister and later professor of Latin and Greek at Cornell College in Iowa. Another, WILLIAM F. BOYD, '66, became a Cincinnati attorney. Margaret Boyd taught in the Cincinnati Wesleyan College and later was principal of the high school at Martinsville, Ind.

ARTHUR C. JOHNSON, editor of the Columbus Dispatch for 40 years and a member of the Ohio University Board of Trustees for 36 years, was awarded a Citation of Merit at the annual meeting of the Ohioana Library Association in Columbus, October 14. The citation was presented to Mr. Johnson "for having given unstintedly of his time and talents to his native state." For 25 years he has served as president of the Ohio State Archaeological and Historical Society, and for 22 years he has been president of the Rutherford B. Hayes-Lucy Webb Memorial Foundation. To top his career of service to Ohio, the Columbus man is now serving as vice-chairman of Ohio's sesqui-centennial commission to plan a state-wide program for the celebration of Ohio's 150th birthday in 1953.

DR. DON D. TULLIS and Mrs. Tullis, residents of Athens for several years since the former's retirement as a minister and religious council administrator, purchased a home in Jaffrey, N. H., to which they moved on November 1. The Tullis' have sons living in the East and they desire to be near them. The retired clergyman is a former national president of the Ohio University Alumni Association and is a member of the Alumni Survey Committee.

1905

Thomas N. Hoover (see picture), emeritus professor of history at Ohio University and well known through the years for his support of Republican political principles and candidates, introduced Senator Robert A. Taft at a luncheon held in Athens on October 20 as a part of the senator's campaign tour of southeastern Ohio. The senator had earlier addressed a crowd of some three thousand students and townspeople in front of the Athens County courthouse. Professor Hoover is chairman of the Athens Citizens for Taft Committee.

1911

Mrs. Ida Lamb Putnam, mother of five Ohio University alumni, died October 22 in a Columbus hospital at the age of 90 following a long period of invalidism. She had made her home with DR. JEAN M. PUTNAM, a Columbus dentist for the last 14 years. Other children of the deceased are HARRIETT L. PUTNAM, '35, Denver, Colo., Mrs. W. H. Clark (SUSAN PUTNAM, '13, 2-yr.), New Haven, Conn., Mrs. Howard R. Miller (DOROTHY PUTNAM, '22, 2-yr.), New York City, ISRAEL PUTNAM, '16x, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mrs. R. B. Mason (ABIGAIL PUTNAM), East Orange, N. Y.

FRANK H. PALMER, an officer of a Columbus bank, The Standard Savings and Loan Company, was one of three past national presidents of the Ohio University Alumni Association in the stands at Ohio Stadium for the Homecoming game on October 28. The others were C. DON MCVAY, Leroy, president of the Ohio Farmers Insurance Company, and GROSVENOR S. MCKEE, '16, Meadville, Pa., vice-president and works manager of Talon, Inc. For a reference to the current president of the Alumni Association see the following item.

Recently off the press are two more volumes of a series of books bearing the title "Equity Procedure and Practice for Virginia and West Virginia" which are being written by LEWIS H. MILLER, judge of the Fifth Judicial Circuit Court of West Virginia and current national president of the Ohio University Alumni Association. Judge Miller's works are textbooks for lawyers and law schools. With Mrs. Miller he attended the Homecoming game on October 28. Judge and Mrs. Miller are residents of Ripley, West Va.

1916

A. E. "DINK" MILLER, ex (center in the picture), president of Ohio University's alumni chapter in Chicago, and DON M. DOWD, '30, one of the Windy City's foremost radio announcers, were a part of a rather sizeable cheering section that supported Ohio U.'s Bobcats in their game with the University of Illinois at Urbana on September 30. Pictured with them (left) is RICHARD P. BANKS, '43, head of the Ohio University Quarterback Club in Athens, who made an even longer trek to see his favorites perform. Dick is proprietor of Banks Sport Shop, a popular sporting goods center on Court Street; is a brother of JAMES P. BANKS, '50, now with the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company in Akron; and is a son of Mark Beal Banks, head football coach at Ohio University, 1913-1918.

1917

In the election of officers with which the 108th annual convale of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of Ohio closed in Columbus last month, RUSSELL DAVIS, ex (see picture on page 20), Worthington, was elected to the office of Grand Warder and started in the succession of offices leading to the highest post. Grand Warder Davis is the husband of the former GOLDIE DRAKE, '14, 2-yr. Mr. Davis is vice-president of the Lumbermens Mutual Insurance Company which has its home offices in Mansfield. Elected Grand Commander at the recent convale was Thomas E. Gibson, Athens, husband of MRS. ADENA DANFORD GIBSON, '17, 2-yr., and father of Mrs. Arthur G. McPherson (MARY A. GIBSON, '43), Wooster.

HOWARD C. "JACK" BOBO, division manager of the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company, with headquarters in Athens, introduced U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft for his public address in Athens on October 20. Unrelated to political matters was a recent conversation with the Alumni Secretary during which Jack challenged a statement which he said had been made in The Ohio Alumnus years ago. It seems that the editor reported at the time of the marriage of RUFUS C. HOPKINS, '20, and Mrs. Hopkins (MARY RESNER, '21), in 1923, that it was the first time that a member of Torch had married a member of Cresset (now Mortar Board). Not so, said Mr. Bobo. He claimed the distinction for himself and Mrs. Bobo (NADA PARRISH, '18), whose nuptial rites were performed in 1919. Now, after all the years, the record stands corrected.

1920

HERBERT N. BARNETTE, for many years a representative of the Equitable Life Insurance Company in Parkersburg, is now conducting an insurance business in Charleston, another West Virginia city.

1921

Dr. W. Lloyd Sprouse, assistant director of the board of admissions at Ohio State University, has been named lieutenant governor of the Ohio District of Kiwanis International which includes clubs in Columbus, Newark, Lancaster, Chillicothe, and Circleville. Dr. and Mrs. Sprouse (HELEN MOWERY, '24x) live in Circleville, where the former is a past president of the local Kiwanis Club.

Mrs. Delia J. Bateman, age 82, of Piketon, mother of Dr. J. F. BATEMAN, superintendent of the Columbus State Hospital, and of Thomas E. Bateman, a Columbus attorney and a former clerk of the Ohio Senate, died October 27 in a Columbus hospital after an illness of six months.

Canal Winchester High School's 1950 homecoming queen was Lois Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Snyder (OLIVE MCFARLAND).

For fear of violating what might have been intended as confidential information the editor of The Alumnus will not mention the salary figure which was involved in a new five-year contract signed this summer by Dr. W. AMOS KINCAID as superintendent of the public schools of Hempstead, N. Y. It is probably among the top 50 salaries paid in such positions in the entire country and is enough to make most college presidents envious. Superintendent Kincaid sent the editor a brochure prepared by the music department of the Hempstead schools which includes a picture of the high school orchestra which will play at Carnegie Hall, New York City, on November 25. "True," the superin-

That's the stuff, Mrs. Mills. Mrs. Turner T. Mills (KATHRYN GROVE, '23x), Cadiz, has a son and a daughter far enough advanced in high school that they are becoming "college conscious." As one means of focusing their attention on Ohio University, Mrs. Mills and her husband brought them to the campus for the big Homecoming celebration on October 28.

ISABELLE M. WORK, associate professor of space arts at Ohio University, spent eight weeks during the past summer in the West Indies and Central and South America where she visited Mexico, Guatemala, Panama, Peru, Chile, Argentina, Uruguay, Brazil, Trinidad, Puerto Rico, The Dominican Republic, Haiti, Jamaica, and Cuba. She took advantage of all opportunities to visit art exhibitions in which she saw works dating from the pre-Inca period to contemporary crafts and paintings. . . . On October 2, Miss Work addressed the Cambridge chapter of the American Association of University Women on the subject, "Is It Art?"

Homemaking doesn't engage the entire time of Mrs. Joseph P. Trepp (JEAN GIST, '25), an Athenian who, as pictured, has artistic inclinations and abilities. Mrs. Trepp has been described as a decorator of "everything from 100-year-old chests to rusty tin trays." Pennsylvania Dutch designs are among her favorites. She has a large number of genuine antiques in her home, but is able by processes with which she is familiar to "antique" objects of relatively recent vintage. She and her husband, an associate professor of physical education at Ohio University, have worked together in remodeling and redecorating their Athens home. Mrs. Trepp at one time owned and operated The Jean Shop (dresses) on West Union Street. . . . Prof. and Mrs. Trepp flew to Europe this summer for a four-week visit: two weeks in Italy, a week on the French Riviera, a week in Paris, and three days in London. They were favored with particularly clear weather while flying over the Swiss Alps, being able to see distinctly Lake Geneva and the mountains below.

PAUL L. SMITH (see picture), who has been with the S. S. Kresge Company in Indiana and Michigan since his graduation from Ohio University, is now a rebuyer for the Hardware and Household Departments of the Kresge Warehouse in Fort Wayne, Ind. Previous positions with this well-known company have been held in Peru and New Castle in the Hoosier state, and in Detroit. The Fort Wayne man married Miss Mary Ritter, a graduate of Purdue University, in 1948.

Picked by H. C. McCORD, superintendent of the Worthington schools, Janet Paton, a Worthington High School senior, was one of six teen-agers chosen from over the nation to appear on a panel discussion dealing with "hot rod" driving at the annual meeting of the American Automobile Association in New York

City last month. Janet was the sole representative from Ohio and for her appearance received an all-expense-paid trip to the big city. The panel participants recommended that "hots" be outlawed and also that there be equal court penalties for the parents of youths who break driving regulations in "souped up" cars.

1927

HENRY M. OATES, sales manager of the Universal Glass Products Co. in Parkersburg, W. Va., with Mrs. Oates, the former ALICE DAVIS, '31x, attended the International Dairy Show held in Atlantic City in October.

1928

PAUL E. KIMES, of the general office staff of The McBee Company in Athens, has been awarded $100 for an idea submitted by him under the company's Proposal Plan for Improvement. In accordance with his suggestion, a congested condition at the firm's loading dock is being relieved by the construction of a roadway built over a railroad siding and the opening of an entrance on the south side of the company's No. 1 plant to facilitate the handling of truck traffic. A story concerning the company, which does an international business, and the large number of Ohio University alumni connected with it, will appear in a future issue of The Ohio Alumnus.

At a luncheon at Hotel Statler in Boston last spring, JOHN W. MOORE, a Moorestown, N. J. sculptor and architect, presented a plaque of his designing to Julius Stone, president of the Boston Kiddie Camp Corporation. The event was pictured in next day's issue of the Boston Globe. The plaque depicts the humanitarian spirit of the corporation's Kiddie Camp at Sharon, Mass., where needy boys, regardless of race, color, or creed, have been given free vacations the last twelve years. Jackie Cooper, of movie fame, was one of the guests at the luncheon. Mr. Moore, shown on page 21 with his son, Robert, is a brother of Mrs. Dallas Farmer (FLORENCE MOORE, '30) and WILLIAM S. MOORE, '26, both of Newark, Ohio. Since leaving Ohio University, John Moore has attended Columbia University, the Philadelphia Museum School of Industrial Design, and in 1944 received a master's degree from the University of Pennsylvania. From 1930-1940, he lived in Bucks County, Pa., near the well-known art colony of New Hope. In the latter year he moved to Moorestown, N. J., where he purchased one of the old Quaker colonial homesteads which he has restored . . . During World War II, Mr. Moore was chief inspector for the Radio Condenser Corporation of America and later was senior process engineer for the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. at its Willow Grove, Pa., plant. Still later, with the J. A. Roebling Co., he designed its Diamond Die Plant at Roebling, N. J. For the last four years, he has been connected with Dr. Gustave T. Reich, a consulting chemical engineer, in Philadelphia. Besides his designing work, he has supervised the construction and operation of chemical plants in this country, the West Indies, and Central America . . . A painter and a sculptor, his work has been exhibited in New York, Philadelphia, Atlantic City, Paris, London and, prior to the war, in Berlin and Prague. Considerable recognition came to him for work, in the architectural field, in the designing of small homes of character and distinction embodying, particularly, colonial features.

1930

NOLAN P. SWACKHAMER, a former Glenford High School coach and widely known in the Ohio Valley as a basketball official, but for several years now manager of a large dairy farm near Mason City, W. Va., was the victim of a hunting accident late in September. With a companion he was hunting squirrels in Meigs County, Ohio, when the friend, upon noticing a movement in the woods blazed away only to find that his target was Mr. Swackhamer. Gunshot pellets were removed from the victim's arms, face and chest at Holzer Hospital in Gallipolis.

1931

AGNES L. EISEN, B.S.Ed. '31, A.M. '33, a critic teacher in the Ohio University Elementary School, was a visitor in Europe for ten weeks during the past summer. During the first half of this period, she was a guest of relatives and friends in Germany and Switzerland. The latter five weeks were spent in travel through Denmark, Norway, Holland, France, and England.

1932

WILLARD RUSSELL and Mrs. Russell (THELMA STARLING, '36x), with their two sons, Jim and Bruce, have taken up residence in Sarasota, Fla., where the father is now a commercial teacher in Sarasota High School. For the past three years, Mr. Russell was assistant to Ward Elliott, president of the Elliott School of Business in Wheeling, W. Va.

F. NELSON UNDERWOOD is teaching in the public schools of Lahaina on the Island of Maui in Hawaii. He has done graduate work at Northwestern University.

CHARLES B. SWANSON, instructor in Gallia Academy High School, Gallipolis, for the past eight years, has been asked by SUPT. E. E. HIGGINS, '25, and PRINCIPAL HAROLD BROWN, '33, to take over the new driver's training course which has just been added to the high school curriculum. Besides the new activity and assisting with athletic coaching, Mr. Swanson teaches biology and mathematics.

THOMAS N. HOOVER, JR., returned to Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, by plane from New York City early last month. He had been in the States on a 90-day vacation after two years with the Arabian-American Oil Company with which he is a personnel wage and salary specialist. Most of his time was spent in Athens with his parents, Professor Emeritus THOMAS N. HOOVER, '05, and Mrs. Hoover, (ETHEL ARNOLD, '13x), although he visited relatives in Youngstown and Dayton and made a plane trip to California.

DR. ROBERT W. WAGNER, formerly an instructor at the U. S. Naval Academy and an associate professor at Oberlin College since 1946, was this fall appointed to a professorship of mathematics in the School of Science at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst. A member of Phi Beta Kappa, he has published several papers in the American Journal of Mathematics and the American Mathematics Monthly. His M.A. and Ph.D. degrees were awarded by the University of Michigan.

Three Ohio University graduates received master's degrees this summer from the University of Southern California. They were: DANA C. MOFFAT (Master of Music); CAPT. CLAUDE H. STEWART, '40 (Master of Business Administration); and ALLAN L. GRUENER, '45 (Master of Arts in drama). Mr. Moffat is a resident of Los Angeles; Capt. Stewart is in service at the San Francisco Port of Embarkation; while the current activities of Mr. Gruener are not known in the Alumni Office.

The new head football mentor at Lakewood High School is JAMES SCULLION (see picture). He succeeds Ralph Ness who resigned this summer to accept the athletic reins at Wittenberg College. Formerly Lakewood's swimming and track coach, he will continue with the swimming team, but give up track duties. Following graduation from Ohio University, Jim compiled an excellent coaching record at Olmsted Falls and later at Orange High School in Chagrin Falls. He went to Lakewood in 1943. His swimming teams have won four Lake Erie League championships in seven seasons and were twice runners-up for the state crown. His track teams won Lake Erie titles four straight years. Until giving up athletic officiating in 1949, he was well-known as a whistle tooter. He received a master's degree in physical education from Western Reserve University in 1947. Married, he is the father of a three-year-old son.

Mrs. Margaret Chapman, mother of MARY E. CHAPMAN, secretary to the director of University Extension at Ohio University, retired last June, after 38½ years of association with the Pomeroy schools, most of these years as a teacher in the high school.

JOHN W. MOORE AND SON
(See Class of 1929 Notes)

When Mrs. MARJORIE WASON HOLLIDAY wrote to the Alumni office in July her husband, MAJOR JOHN C. HOLLIDAY, B.S.Ed. '37, M.S. '39, A.B. '40, an officer in the Medical corps of the U. S. Air Force, was in service overseas. A hint as to where will be gained from Mrs. Holliday's statement that "by the time another year rolls around I'll either be in Japan or at home."

1937

MRS. M. WHITCOMB HESS, A.M., wife of Dr. John A. Hess, professor of German at Ohio University, and mother of HARRY A. HESS, '43, is a writer and frequent contributor to periodicals. The October 7 issue of America contains an article of her authorship entitled "Lin Yutang on Henry Adams." Other articles on men of letters in the Literature and Arts Department of America contributed by Mrs. Hess have included studies of Arnold Toynbee, Goethe, Richard Crashaw, Aubrey de Vere, James Whitcomb Riley, and Thomas Ewing, Ohio University's first graduate.

1938

Returning to his home town of Athens after an absence of eleven years, GILBERT M. SHANNON purchased the Mickle Tire and Accessory Store and, after extensive remodeling, opened a new Firestone Service Store. He became associated with the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company in 1938 and, with the exception of three war years during which he was in the Army, has been with the big rubber concern ever since, being stationed at various times in Utica, N. Y.;

Lexington, Ky.; Ironton and Cincinnati. Mr. Shannon is a brother of Mrs. Vere Smith (KATHLEEN SHANNON, '40x)

DR. WADE VOLWILER, ex. assistant professor of medicine at the University of Washington in Seattle, visited England, Scotland, and Denmark during the past summer. He was one of eleven speakers to present papers before the first International Conference on Liver Diseases held in London in July. The Washington man is the son of Dr. A. T. Volwiler, of the Ohio University Department of History, and Mrs. Volwiler.

1939

CHESTER F. ADAMS (Adameczyk when in school), former Bobcat gridiron stalwart and

ROGER J. JONES, JR.
(See Class of 1940 Notes)

World War II veteran, is continuing another year of professional football, this time with the New York Yankees of the National Football League. Chet, who starred at a tackle position for the Cleveland Rams and the Cleveland Browns prior to being sent to the now defunct Buffalo Bills, last season kicked 32 extra points in as many tries for the Bills.

GEORGE R. GRIFFITHS and Mrs. Griffiths of Falls Church, Va., this summer announced the adoption of a little girl, Judith Ann, who was six months of age at the time, she came into their home. Mr. Griffiths is assistant chief of the Employment Branch of the U. S. Maritime Administration in Washington, D. C.

1940

ROGER J. JONES, JR., (see picture) who graduated with honors from the University of Cincinnati Law School last spring, has joined his father, ROGER J. JONES, SR., '13, in a law partnership in Athens. At the Cincinnati school the young barrister was one of 20 seniors appointed to the Legal Clinic operated by the Cincinnati Legal Aid Society in conjunction with the university. The twenty, selected by the law school on the basis of scholarship and ability, worked under the supervision of staff attorneys in interviewing the society's clients and in making law investigations. Mr. Jones is married and has a two-year-old stepdaughter, Shirley. His mother, now recovering from a heart ailment, is the former MARGARET MOORE, '12, 2-yr.

PEYTON D. REED, a graduate of the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge, Mass., and now rector of St. Stephen's Church in Winton Place, Cincinnati, was ordained to the priesthood on September 27. He is the son of Dr. Frank W. Reed, of the Department of Mathematics at Ohio University, and Mrs. Reed, and a brother of JOHN W. REED, '47, a graduate student at Ohio State University. The Episcopal clergyman married MARY ANNE COUGHLIN, '41, and they are the parents of two children, Peyton D., Jr., 7, and Patricia, 2.

One of those things that is apt to happen in the best of editorial families occurred when an announcement of the birth of a daughter, Mary Katharyne, to Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. Fletcher H. Herrald (VIRGINIA MULLETT, '40) failed to get into print last spring. The young lady arrived on January 26, however, and was welcomed by a three-year-old brother, Fletcher, IV, as well as by two very pleased parents. Unless reassigned recently, Commander Herrald is an inspector-instructor at the Naval Reserve Training Center in Phoenix, Ariz.

CAPT. THOMAS E. MORGAN, JR., assistant director of budget, Headquarters, Philippines Command (Air Force) and 13th Air Force, was united this summer with his wife, Ann, and two children, at his station at Clark Air Force Base in Central Luzon. Mrs. Morgan and the children, Thomas, III, 3, and Dale Ann, 1, arrived in the Philippines aboard a U. S. Navy transport along with other families of U. S. Armed Forces personnel also on duty in the Islands. Capt. Morgan has been in the service since 1942 and holds the Air Medal with twelve oak leaf clusters. He served in France and England during the European campaigns.

ROBERT B. COOK and Mrs. Cook (KATHALEAN SCOTT, '40, 3-yr.), with 8-months-old Kathy Suzanne, are residents of Berlin, N. H. This fall Mrs. Cook is teaching first grade at Berlin's Brown School while her husband is finishing up studies in watchmaking at the North Bennett Street School in Boston, Mass.

THOMAS CARROLL, who, at last account, was an accountant with Squibb & Company in Brooklyn, received a Bachelor of Laws degree from St. John's University, Brooklyn, last June.

CAPT. CHARLES E. "JACK" PRITCHARD, ex. and Mrs. Pritchard (BETTY GREENE, '43), who, as reported last month in connection with the announcement of a new son, returned to the States after a tour of duty in Europe, have given additional information concerning themselves. Most of the three years abroad, Jack reports, were spent in Austria and chiefly in Vienna. There, Betty taught for two years in the American Dependents' School. They are now living in Santa Rosa, Calif., near The Presidio in San Francisco, where Capt. Pritchard is stationed.

ROGER C. QUISENBERRY, HARRY L. HOFFEE, '46x, and L. F. Hicks, members of the engineering faculty at Ohio University, have been notified that they passed the July examination given by the Ohio State Board of Registration for Professional Engineers and Surveyors. Licenses to practice engineering have been awarded to Quisenberry and Hicks, while Hoffee received a certificate as engineer-in-training. Mr. Hoffee, instructor in electrical engineering, received a degree in electrical engineering from Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Worcester, Mass., and has done graduate work at Ohio University.

AMELIA R. MOODIE, a teacher in the New Straitsville schools, is represented in the September issue of The Instructor by an illustrated article on how to make band costumes. The article is entitled "For Your Rhythm Band."

H. DALE HANNAN, instructor in chemistry at Miami University, could scarcely have helped having mixed feelings as he witnessed the Ohio-Miami gridiron battle in Ohio Stadium, October 28. Instructor Hannan, who pursued graduate work at the University of North Carolina, was associated with two large industrial concerns prior to entering the teaching field, the American Viscose Corp. and the Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Corp.

ERNEST N. MOBLEY, acting director of the Kern County Personnel Department at Bakersfield, Calif., would like to learn of some recent Ohio University graduate who would be interested in a position as assistant planning engineer in his county. A good scholastic record and some experience are prerequisites. For other requirements, it would be well to write directly to Mr. Mobley.

June graduates at Washington University, St. Louis, Mo., included WILFRED R. KONNEKER, B.S. '43, M.S. '47, who received a Ph.D. degree, and JOHN R. TOUT, '51x, who was awarded an A.B. degree. Dr. Konneker, whose field of specialization is physics, had been a graduate assistant at Washington University for two years. John Tout is a brother of GEORGE S. TOUT, '46, Tiltonsville.

Friends of Mrs. David B. Fletcher, Jr. (JOAN MATHEWS, '44) have reported the death of her husband in the August 31 airplane crash in Egypt which was noted by the Press throughout the world. Mr. Fletcher was a pilot for Trans World Airlines and, with Mrs. Fletcher, had resided in Cairo, Egypt, since April 1948. They had previously lived in Rome. A daughter, Jeanne, was born in Cairo on January 16 of this year. The victim of the tragic accident, a veteran flier of World War II with approximately 5,000 flying hours to his credit, was on a vacation trip at the time of the crash and was not engaged in his regular duties. Mrs. Fletcher was on a visit to her home in Clarksburg, W. Va., at the time of the fatal mishap. A native of South Carolina, Pilot Fletcher was buried at Bennettsville in that state, September 28.

As far as is known, RAY S. ERLANDSON, ex, and Mrs. Erlandson (KATHRYN "KAY" STUCKEY, '44) made the longest trek homeward of any alumni who attended the 1950

RAYMOND L. STURM
(See Class of 1948 Notes)

Homecoming celebration last month. Ray and his father own a chain of music stores and the son is manager of the store in Austin, Tex.

1945

CHARLES O. "BUD" LINTNER, is district sales manager for the Fleet Lease Corporation. Fleet Lease, a company with headquarters in Athens, leases automobiles (passenger cars) to such persons as travelling salesmen, keeping up all repairs and maintenance expenses. Before taking his present position he was an industrial engineer with the B. F. Goodrich Company. Mrs. Lintner is the former HATTIE LU GRONES, '46.

Among the members of the Class of 1945 engaged in teaching, and the places of their service, are: MRS. EVA DELANO FARRELL, Circleville; BETTY JANE FINESILVER, Cleveland; MRS. NANCY HARTINGER MOLL, Worthington; and MRS. JEAN GERDES RUDOLPH, Cincinnati. Mrs. Farrell and Mrs. Moll are the wives respectively, of DONALD L. FARRELL, '48, and VERDIN A. MOLL, JR., '45X.

VIRGINIA R. HEDGECOCK, a journalism graduate who has been associated with Motor News, magazine of the American Automobile Association, and a copywriter for the Hutzler Advertising Agency in Dayton is now on the staff of the Michigan Manufacturing and Finance Record, in Detroit, Mich.

ALMA E. HORTON, A.B. '46, A.M. '49, a member of the editorial staff of the Silver

Burdett Company, book publishers, in New York City, enjoyed a three-week vacation trip to the West Indies early in October. The trip was topped off with a four-day stay in Havana.

JOHN HENLE, III, a staff psychologist at the Veterans Administration hospital in Canandaigua, N. Y., was an Alumni Office visitor this summer at which time he reported that LESLIE M. SPAULDING, '24X, a patient in his hospital, is getting along well and that he enjoys The Ohio Alumnus. "Les," who is a veteran of World War I, would enjoy letters from his friends.

MRS. FIDELIA RISLEY GORMLEY, M.S. former assistant dean of women at Ohio University and later dean of women at Eastern Washington College, Cheney, Wash., now resides in Montevallo, Alabama where her husband, Dr. Charles L. Gormley, is assistant professor of education at Alabama College, the state college for women.

JO ANNE SMIT has joined the faculty of Allegheny College, Meadville, Pa., as an instructor in psychology. She received an M.S. degree from the University of Pittsburgh in January, 1949, and has been a lecturer on the staff at Pitt for the past year, working, at the same time, on her doctorate.

After three years as assistant "teen-age" director in the Akron Y.W.C.A., MARILYN MILLER has gone to Riverside, Calif., to become "teen-age" director of the Y.W.C.A. in the California city.

CLARK B. CLEVELAND, JR., and Mrs. Cleveland (MARTHA ESSMAN, '43) have purchased the home on Roosevelt Drive in Athens recently vacated by Dr. and Mrs. Don D. Tullis (see Class of 1898 note). Mr. Cleveland, formerly associated with Houck & Van Dyke, Inc., a local insurance agency, is now an independent representative of a number of leading insurance companies, handling a general line of insurance including life, fire, automobile, etc. Mrs. Cleveland is secretary to Ohio University's President John C. Baker.

An editor's sins of omission are frequently his worst offenses. This time there is word from the John Millikens that the birth of their second child, John Conaway, was never reported through the columns of The Ohio Alumnus. The young fellow put in an appearance on March 22, 1949. The parents, JOHN E., '47, and PHYLLIS SCARFF MILLIKEN, '43, are residents of New Carlisle.

With the season a little past midpoint, the Portsmouth High "Trojans" are making a comeback as an Ohio scholastic football power, with a record of five victories and one defeat. An Associated Press poll gave them a standing of fourth in the state. Head coach of the Trojans is WILLIAM R. "BILL" HESS. Among his assistants is Backfield Coach CHRIS STEFAN, '49.

RAYMOND L. STURM (see picture) came to the First Methodist Church in Athens this fall as director of music and youth work. He has done graduate study in music and religious education at the University of Wisconsin, Union Theological Seminary, and Columbia University. He is completing work for a master's degree from Wisconsin. While in residence at that school, he was assistant conductor of the university's cappella choir and studied under Dr. Siegfried Prayer. He is a past president of the Wesley Foundation at Ohio University.

Although still in the Canal Zone, LIEUT. JOHN M. NOLAN says, "I have been moved 50 miles closer to home." Formerly at Balboa, on the Pacific side, where he was an R.O.T.C. instructor in the high school, the Ohio University man, with Mrs. Nolan (ROSEMARY SNACKENBERY, '48) and their little son, William, are now in Cristobal, on the Atlantic side, where Lieut. Nolan is in charge of the newly-opened junior R.O.T.C. unit at Cristobal High School.

L. COOVER STAATS, JR., received a Master of Arts degree in speech pathology at the University of Iowa on August 9. His thesis was entitled, "A Study of the Sense of Humor of Stutterers and Normal Speakers." He now has a position as college representative of Scott, Foresman & Company, book publishers, in an area that includes: Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia, and western Pennsylvania. He and Mrs. Staats, a Clear Lake, Iowa, young lady, whom he married in June of 1949, are making their home in Athens. Mr. Staats is the son of DR. L. C. STAATS, A.B. '26, M.A. '31, professor of dramatic art and speech at Ohio University, and Mrs. Staats (ESTHER KENNEY, '24, M.A. '48).

MARGARET SINCLAIR

An Ohio University girl who is literally "flying high" these days is MARGARET "SCOTTY" SINCLAIR (see picture) a new United Air Lines stewardess. After completing an intensive course at United's stewardess training school at Cheyenne, Wyo., Miss Sinclair was recently assigned to the company's Mainliner flights in and out of Chicago. U.A.L. was the first to use women in a now popular profession, starting off twenty years ago with eight young women on its Chicago-San Francisco route. Today, more than 5,000 stewardesses are serving passengers on airlines whose routes crisscross the world.

Information as to the groom's occupational activity was lacking last month when the marriage of Barbara Thompson to CHARLES L. SMITH was reported. Charles has now brought us up to date, however, with the fact that he is assistant statistician for the National Lumber Manufacturers Association in Washington, D. C. His parental home is in Norfolk, Conn. Mrs. Smith, whose home is in Muncie, Ind., was secretary to Mr. Henry Bahr, secretary of the N.L.M.A. at the time of her marriage.

WILLIAM J. BUCKOVICH, who was awarded the Bachelor of Fine Arts degree at Ohio University in 1949, received a Bachelor of Science in Education degree, specializing in speech, dramatic art, and history, from the University of Cincinnati last June. He is now teaching in the Cincinnati public schools. His wife, the former JUNE BRADLEY, '47, is an art teacher in one of the Cincinnati schools.

HARRY R. COLLINS, B.S.Ed. '49, A.M. '50, president of the Class of 1949, is a personnel trainee with the Tokheim Pump

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE CONSTABLE
AND ELIZABETH ANN
(See Class of 1950 Notes)

Company, manufacturers of gasoline and compression pumps, in Fort Wayne, Ind. Harry was a Homecoming visitor on October 28.

Upon completion of work at Stanford University this summer for a Master of Science Degree in electrical engineering, MICHAEL DODAK accepted a position with the Hughes Aircraft Company in Los Angeles as an electronic engineer, grade A.

GEORGE N. CONSTABLE (see picture), a World War II veteran who met and married, in June 1948, a charming British young lady, with his wife and child sailed August 8 for England where he expects to live for at least several years. With a degree in journalism, he hopes soon to land a position on the staff of the London News Chronicle. "England," he writes, "has changed considerably even in two years since I was last here. The first big difference was noticed at Southampton where we disembarked from the Queen Elizabeth. There were hundreds of autos on the road—literally thousands: motorbikes, Austin 10's, Austin Sheerlines, Triumphs, Jaguars, Sunbeam Talbots, even an occasional '50 Ford, and one dazzling convertible Cadillac. Soap just came off rationing two weeks ago. 'Lovely,' that is the way the average Englishman sums the situation up. Churchill is still an old 'wardog' to the Laborite and Clem Attlee is a 'drab field mouse' to the Capitalist Tory." George has promised to write a special article on the British scene for publication in a later issue of The Ohio Alumnus. Mrs. Constable is the former Marjory Evans of Stapleton, Bristol, England. With her parents in the nearby picture is little Elizabeth Ann, who was born in Athens, June 10, 1949. Also in the picture, as George points out, "is my second-hand, three-speed Raleigh bike—just got it."

FRANCIS PATRICK (could be Irish) COLLINS, a vice-president of the Class of 1950, is one of several outstanding members of his class who have remained at Ohio University this year either as graduate students or as staff members. Pat (see picture), who was class executive for the August graduating group, is now assistant to Director of Off-Campus Relations A. C. Gubitzi, with a special responsibility for editing certain bulletins and promotional materials.

DON C. PEDEN, former athletic director and head football coach at Ohio University, who was given honorary membership in the Alumni Association upon his retirement early this spring, with Mrs. Peden, occupied a sideline box in Ohio Stadium for the Homecoming Game with the Miami Redskins. The Pedens' son "Punkie," was also an interested spectator. Ohioans who heard the radio broadcast of the Ohio-Illinois game on September 23 will know that Coach Peden came from his Iowa home to attend that game, also, and that he was interviewed by PROF. VINCENT JUKES, '30, of Ohio University's own radio staff, between the halves of the game at Urbana.

FRANK C. VASEK, who enrolled in the University of California at Los Angeles following graduation from Ohio University last February, now holds a graduate assistantship in botany at U.C.L.A.

MARTIN H. SPIELBERG, whose engagement to a former Ohio University girl is announced elsewhere in this issue, is not a lone representative of his alma mater at the University of Alabama, where he is a graduate assistant in the Department of Speech. BETTY WEBSTER, '50, holds a fellowship in the same department. RUTH E. COFFMAN, B.S.Ed. '45, A.M. '46, is an instructor in the Speech Department, while Miss Jane Beasley, a former instructor in Ohio University's Speech Clinic, is now an assistant professor in the southern school.

Among the many, many alumni who helped make up this fall's Homecoming crowd, possibly the largest in Ohio University's history, were HAYDEN S. CRABTREE and Mrs. Crabtree (LOIS SONDERGAARD, '48) of Bowling Green. The former is a claim adjuster for the State Automobile Mutual Insurance Company, while the latter is working in the Business Office at Bowling Green State University.

Libby Linn Gabriel, whose marriage to RALPH GABRIEL is announced elsewhere in this issue, will be a faculty recitalist, November 5, in a series of Sunday night vocal and instrumental programs sponsored by the Ohio University School of Music and held in Alumni Memorial Auditorium. A talented pianist, Mrs. Gabriel is a graduate of the Institute of Musical Art and of the Juilliard Graduate School of Music in New York City. She also attended Columbia University and Mills College in Oakland, Calif. Her husband, also musical, attended the Navy Band School and served in the Navy during World War II. He is now band director and instructor in instrumental music at Rockbridge High School.

The high scholastic abilities of the foreign students coming to Ohio University these days is attested by the fact that TEUVO TAPIO LEHTI, from Finland, graduated No. 1 in the June class which had exactly 900 members. Two other men from foreign shores, FREDERICK DE WIT, from Curacao in the northern Antilles, and TADEUSZ ZBIGNIEW DANIELEWSKI, from Poland, graduated 8th and 16th, respectively in the class. After touring the western U. S. this summer, Lehti has returned to Finland to become associated in business with his father. DeWit is now a graduate student at Pennsylvania State College, while Daniclewski is pursuing graduate work at the University of Iowa.

MALCOLM J. RUHL, ex, and Mrs. Ruhl (BETTY LOU SMITH, '49) were campus visitors on September 27. "Mac" received an A.B. degree at the University of Denver in August and, as an army reserve officer, is now awaiting a call to military service. Mrs. Ruhl has a position, in Denver, as chemist with Shwyder Brothers, manufacturers of "Samsonite" luggage.

Finding it impossible to be in two places some 2,500 miles apart on the same day, MRS. MARJORIE M. NEELY, head of residence at Lindley Hall, chose to forego the Ohio University Commencement exercises and to attend those of the University of Oregon last June.
